VMH service area may shrink

Valley Memorial Hospital officials had better "keep an eye" on the fast - developing San Ramon area — or lose that potential segment of its service area.

That warning came Thursday night from lawyer Bill Struthers, who has been serving as a Valley representative to the new Health Systems Agency (HSA) which is in charge of health planning in Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

Struthers delivered some inside information to the hospital board — including a note that chairing the top - level HSA board is a Danville resident.

Currently, Valley Memorial's service area extends from Sunol in the south to Crow Canyon Road in San Ramon, and from I - 680 in the west to the Altamont area east of Livermore.

However, organizations seeking to build a hospital in the San Ramon - Danville area have challenged VMH's ability to serve that segment of southwestern Contra Costa County. Meanwhile, VMH is proceeding with plans for a medical center in Pleasanton based on potential business from San Ramon.

The state Departmet of Health is still the final authority on health planning but HSA is "going to be powerful," Struthers predicted.

He drew chuckles from his audience when he described the three layers of HSA bureaucracy that have been set up. At the top, he explained, is an 11 - member governing board made up of three supervisors from each of the two counties and five appointees. One reason the top layer is political, he said, is because federal and state money for all kinds of medical purposes, formerly distributed through boards of supervisors, is now going through HSA and the supervisors wanted to retain control of it.

Second in line is a 30 - person governing body. Ken Crosswell of Livermore serves on this board as a Valley representative although Struthers sees representation as dominated by Oakland and Berkeley interests.

The third layer is made up of two sub - area councils, one for Alameda County and one for Contra Costa. Advising this body are sub - subarea councils, the local one presided over by Marge Hammer, a nurse who has directed the Pleasanton Health Care Center and coordinated the Family Medical Center of Dublin - San Ramon.

Although the boards are divided between "providers" (representatives of hospitals, nursing homes, health care centers) and "consumers" (representatives of the general public who use these facilities), Struthers predicts the real power will eventually be held by the professional health care people since there will be a faster turnover among the "consumer" segment.

The enormous number of HSA committee members — in the hundreds — amused VMH board members. But they were not so tickled when Struthers talked about the power to be wielded by the huge bureaucracy. "There's a great discrediting of everything that's been done in the past," he summed up. "I think they're going to start fairly new."

The HSA is a major federally - mandated step toward a national health system, superseding the Comprehensive Health Planning council which used to oversee planning decisions in the two counties.

Nuclear arms and Lawrence Lab

Air express of plutonium spurs lab security steps

Although highly - radioactive plutonium has been shipped by air since the material's discovery in 1940, none of the shipping containers have been subjected to test drops of more than 30 feet, government officials told The Times Friday.

Federal law enacted Dec. 31, 1975, allows plutonium to be shipped by air under certain circumstances. This exemption is to end when "a safe container has been developed and tested which will not rupture under crash and blast testing equivalent to the crash and explosion of a high - flying aircraft," the law states.

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA), which has responsibility for such shipments, is funding testing on "accident - resistant" containers and expects data from Sandia Laboratory in Albuquerque, N.M., later this year.

ERDA officials Friday said that air transportation of plutonium is more dangerous than by land, but is necessary in certain cases.

If a nuclear facility needs a radioactive material quickly, due to parts breakdown or other unforeseen occurence, an exemption will be granted for air shipment.

Nuclear materials may also be shipped by air if officials have reason to believe a security threat exists on land.

In case of a medical emergency in which a radioisotope is required immediately, or fast shipment is mandated due to the physical propeies of the substance, then an exemption may also be granted.

"We of course would prefer to ship by land," said Jim Davis of ERDA in Oakland. "But if conditions change quickly or a component fails, then a fast shipment may be necessary."

ERDA increased its safeguards budget from $94 million in 1975 to $123 million last year. Expenditures included costs for security, lighting, fences, alarms and construction, as well as guards, couriers and other personnel.

Armed guards and couriers have shoot-to-kill orders. Consideration is being given to poisoning nuclear materials prior to shipment so theft would be even more hazardous.

Special unmarked and heavily - armored trucks are used for land shipment. Movement is monitored by special communications systems. Shipments are direct, with no loading or unloading between shipment and final delivery.

In case of theft of a nuclear shipment, materials handlers are to notify ERDA officials immediately. The FBI would then have full investigatory powers, and local law enforcement would be notified.

"Clean-up" crews at several nuclear facilities are specially trained in case of accident, including personnel at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, a prime user of plutonium in research of nuclear weapons.

In the years since discovery of radioactive material, no accidents have yet taken place, ERDA officials point out.

Stark backs plutonium opposition

DUBLIN — The issue of transporting plutonium to local nuclear facilities was kicked around at the People's Forum here yesterday.

Congressman Pete Stark (D-Ca.) hosted the emotional debate between officials from Lawrence Livermore Laboratory (LLL), a U.C. Berkeley environmental scientist, and a hundred "stirred up" citizens who packed into Shannon Community Center.

Stark said that the crash of a plane carrying plutonium into Livermore could cause "an epidemic of lung cancer in the metropolitan Bay Area."

A cheering round of applause came when a man stood up and shouted, "I say don't have plutonium in that lab."

Dr. Joseph Tinney, former head of LLL Hazards Control Department, said, "There is no direct evidence for plutonium toxicity having caused serious injury to any human being, anywhere, ever."

He said that if one kilogram of plutonium was involved in a fire, about half a gram of plutonium would be released.

Seventy-five protest nuclear work

LIVERMORE — Seventy - five peaceful demonstrators carrying a 560 - foot abstract replica of the submarine "Trident" protested development of nuclear warheads at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory (LLL) yesterday.

"We have a choice of protesting or sticking our heads in the sand," said one of the marchers as the "Trident" — a mass of nylon rope, cane poles, and 408 black plastic streamers, each representing a warhead — was hoisted down east Avenue.

"We're not interested in closing the place down or putting people out of their jobs," said protest leader Steve Ladd. "We think the technology of the lab could be used for developing a new energy source."

"Tomorrow there will be a major demonstration in San Luis Obispo," said Liz Walker of the "People Against Nuclear Power." "We hope to stop construction of the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant. It's more than a sit - in. We'll have tents and sleeping bags to show we don't want the plant built," she said.

With drums beating and people chanting the parade consisted of men and women from all walks of life. There was a Japanese Buddhist monk, an Alameda man in a wheel chair, and a sign carrier from Oakland who said, "I'd go to the end of the earth to demonstrate — not for me but for the life of my grandchildren."

Upon arriving at the lab, a drummer pounded rhythms while a guitarist played and a young woman sang. While listening to "Political Science" by Randy Newman, the marchers snacked on sack lunches and one man dozed off in a grassy ditch.

Meanwhile, across the street, LLL security guards awaited for the invasion of demonstrators. Nothing, however, came over the lab's cyclone fence except a few gentle drops of rain.

Jeff Garberson, LLL Public Information Officer said, "I think they have every right to demonstrate. And they have fulfilled their promise of being peaceful."

After more entertainment by musicians, the protesters heard five speakers voice their opinions.

Finally the crowd dispersed and a caravan headed for Dublin to hear Rep. Pete Stark speak on transportation of Plutonium into Livermore.

Alisal School in Pleasanton marked National PTA's "Apple for the Teacher" day Friday, to the surprise and elation of a host of teachers at the school.

The board of the Alisal PTA also prepared apple jar vases for each teacher. Susan Butzin, president of Alisal PTA, and Bev Jotten were among those preparing the surprise for teaching staff members.

Fair sewer pact stirs challenge

PLEASANTON — A former city administrator 19 years ago signed a sewage disposal contract with Alameda County 29 days before he was officially hired, city records show.

That contract, in which Pleasanton agreed to construct sewage pipelines connecting the fairgrounds with the Sunol treatment plant, has cost the city $455,000 in unclaimed treatment fees, charges CARD, a citizens action group.

Wally Mayer Jr., co-chairman of CARD, said the city should review the 1958 contract and determine if county officials should repay Pleasanton for treating fairground sewage.

The contract to jointly construct sewage pipelines to the fairgrounds was signed by "Donald Christin, city administrator," on Feb. 18, 1958.

Donald Christen (correct spelling) was hired as the city administrator on March 17, 1958 at a salary of $6600.

"I think there are enough questions left unanswered to prompt (the city) to explore the contract in detail," Mayer said Friday. "It's still costing us $35,000 a year (to process the fairground's sewage) as long as the Sunol plant remains in operation."

In a report prepared by CARD over the last six months, the committee charges that nothing in the agreement precludes the city from charging the county for processing sewage generated at the fairgrounds.

But if not included in terms of the contract, city councils members 19 years ago apparently considered it part of the agreement. After summarizing the contract in three paragraphs at its Feb. 24, 1958 meeting, the minutes conclude, "The City of Pleasanton (votes) to agree to accept in perpetuity our fairground sewage free of charge."

Mayer said that the wording was vague and "could mean anything. It might refer to only the transport of sewage — who knows?"

The county fair board has declined comment on the matter. The Pleasanton city attorney was not available for comment.

Time, money shortage

Komandorski kids have their own champion

For a young man who has put in countless hundreds of volunteer hours to keep youth activities going at Komandorski Village, with more than a few setbacks in return, Allen Arsenault seems ideally suited for what he wants to do some day — be a community worker.

The Arsenault family came to Komandorski in 1971, after Allen's dad, then in the U.S. Army, was sent from a base in Augsburg, West Germany to the Oakland Army Terminal. The family could not find suitable housing near the base and was referred to Komandorski.

It proved a fortunate day for hundreds of Komandorski kids!

Along with Dan Blea, now receiving manager at Mervyn's in Dublin, and other Dublin High School students of the early 70s including Billie Williams Blea and Les Boulter, Allen started organizing activites for kids in the village.

From that time, when Allen was a Dublin junior, to now (he left San Jose State after three years to get a job "and pay some bills"), he has been involved in trying to get more recreational facilities for youngsters residing in "the projects" along Dougherty Road.

Walking with Allen through the area this past week, he noted basketball courts and soccer goals as fairly-recent additions for the approximately 100 high school and 200 grade school kids living there.

He sees the major problem now, aside from renovating and setting-up the youth center again, as trying to find interested senior teens who will take over leadership roles.

There has always been the problems of facilities, equipment, activities ... money and time ... time and money!

Allen has run the teen club that meets at the youth center the last two years.

"Outside" interest in helping the people and children of Komandorski has been sincere, but spasmodic. There has been assistance in the form of paid aides via the Amador school district's vocational education program and classes and activities conducted by the Pleasanton Recreation Department.

Aside from the year-round offerings of the Pleasanton Recreation Department, coordinated by Dolores Bengtson, and Allen's on-going efforts, the pickings are rather meagre.

For many of the teens, it's a walk down Dougherty to the new bowling alley, the "open gym" on Saturdays at Camp Parks, the show ... or nothing.

"At this time I'm trying to train some teens to take some responsibility ... but a lot of them have other jobs or interests," says young Arsenault. "It's not too difficult to get some interested but its hard to try and train them to take over, to use their initiative."

He estimates that there have been many weeks in past years when he's put in 20 to 40 hours of volunteer effort, and purchasing supplies with monies out of his own pocket.

While it may have seemed like labor at times, it's been a labor of love — and the hundreds of Komandorski kids have been the beneficiaries.

Livermore Air Show

They're walking wings, falling from sky

LIVERMORE — A colorful flurry of parachute jumpers opens this year's big Livermore Air Show next Sunday (Mothers' Day) at the airport.

The eighth annual show will be held at the municipal airport, beginning at noon. Last year's event attrcted some 15,000 people and netted about $6,000 for the sponsoring Jaycees.

The spectacular parachute descent from an altitude of 3,500 feet will be performed by members of the California Parachute Club, the oldest organized club of its kind in the country. In 1956 the club was formed by ex - airborne men who wanted to continue jumping. Livermore was their starting point and is still their home. About 75 members train at the airport while all the jumps are made in the official jump zone.

Visitors are welcome and student jumpers can complete their training and progress to high - altitude jumps and free falls at Livermore Airport.

Two hours before the opening performance, the Jaycees will be on hand at the airport to help early arrivals park their cars and to collect the admission fee ($2 donation for adults, $1 for children 5 and over.) Those coming early will have plenty of time to look at an imposing display of more than 75 different aircraft and to picnic on the grass before the show begins.

Other featured exhibits in the all - afternoon show:

● At 12:15, Ed Andreini will take to the air in his silver Stearman to perform an array of difficult acrobatic tricks. This will be the sixth year the Half Moon Bay resident has been part of the show, bringing back an act that is full of skill and knowledge.

The plane he uses is the type used to train pilots for service in World War II. It is quite large, very heavy and underpowered compared with the planes of today.

The plane is exactly as it left the factory and promises to bring back many memories to those who served in the war.

● Radio controlled model planes will take to the sky. Doug Sawyer will return for the seventh year to fly these powerful miniature craft. The average radio controlled plane has a wing span of 96 inches, wing area of 1500 square inches, length of 70 inches and flying weight of 11 lbs.

The planes have aboue 1.2 horsepower with a scale speed of more than 200 mph attained in different acts.

In order to control these planes a transmitter and receiver are necessary, usually a five - channel radio which provides control for the engine speed, ailerons, elevators, rudder amd wing flaps.

Some of the larger planes have retractable landing gear and bombbay doors that open and close. Last year these modelers had their planes on display and answered questions about the sport.

● A 15 - minute demonstration of model rocketry by the Livermore Rocketeers will show how these powerful tubes of paper, balsa wood or light plastic can attain heights.

The club was started in 1973 and usually flies at the Livermore Civic Center site on South Livermore Avenue, 9 a.m. to noon, weather permitting.

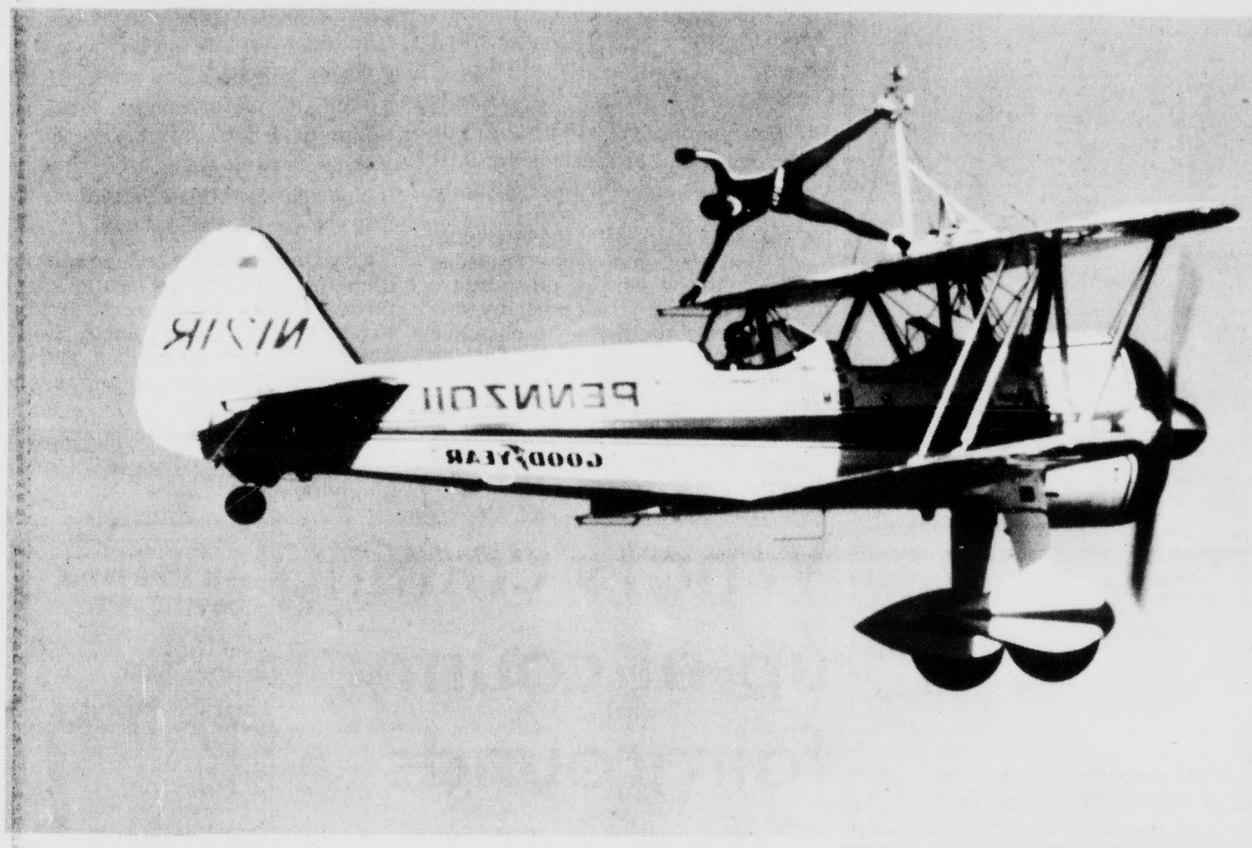
● Star attraction will be Joe C. Hughes' Super Stearman Wingwalker Act. The flyer will do two 15 - minute acts, the first solo, the second with 19 - year - old ballerina Donna Behrendt on the wing. The plane is based at Huntington Beach.

● Glider flyer Hal Lawrence, founder of the Bay Area Soaring Associates, will do a series of daredevil turns, loops, cloverleafs and 90 - degree turns in a Schweitzer 2-32, 3 - place glider which weighs 950 pounds empty.

● Woody McIntosh, who has been flying since 1943, will show off his aerobatic skills in many different and difficult stunts. He is an inventory control supervisor at Kaiser Aerospace and Electronics plant in Palo Alto.

● Among the planes on display will be Howie Keefe's "Miss America" P51. Annis Insurance Co. of Pleasanton will be paying for the fuel to being the craft up from Los Angeles.

Another vintage aircraft will be Jim Nissen's Curtis-Jenny. The original aircraft will be flown in on Saturday for the show.



The big finish

Airshow climax: Donna Behrendt cavorts on wing.

Tank seepage

Danville man finds gasoline in his well

DANVILLE — A well-known petroleum company can expect a complaint today from a Danville man who found gasoline, instead of water, floating in his toilet last Saturday.

"If they don't contact me by tomorrow, I'm really going to complain," said Ed Symmon, 104 El Dorado.

And Danville firemen will probably support Symmon's complaint. Since the discovery, firemen, attempting to solve the problem, have recovered a pint of gasoline a day.

The substance appears to be slowly seeping into a well Symmon recently had dug in his back yard.

Fire officials say the gas is draining from an abandoned gasoline storage tank next to Symmon's property.

The tank is buried beneath Don's Texaco Service station, 499 San Ramon Valley Road.

Hank Carstensen, Danville's fire inspector, said his department ran tests on the gasoline level in the well.

According to Symmons, a "sniffer" used to test vapors, showed the air had 80 per cent gas vapors.

Carstensen said Texaco is running tests to determine where the seepage is from. Texaco representatives were unavailable for comment.

According to Carstensen, the abandoned storage tank was filled with water and capped years ago after it was discovered that gasoline might be leaking from the tank.

He said abandoning the 6,000 - gallon storage tank is a violation of the district's fire codes.

Although no direct hazard exists to the house and its occupants, Carstensen said there are health and ecological hazards involved.

Symmon built the 17-foot well nearly three months ago at a cost of $3,500.

The leaking gas reportedly has eaten through a plastic casing that reinforces the sides of the well.

Symmon is concerned about using the tainted well water for his outside irrigation.

"We have trees here that are 20 years old," he said. "They tell me the gasoline is only 10 or 12 feet below the ground. You can imagine what will to the tree roots."

He said abandoning the the 6,000- gallon storage tank is a violation of the district's fire codes.

Airport master plan back to city council

LIVERMORE — The answers to several questions about the airport master plan will be presented to city council when it meets 8 p.m. Monday.

Council considered approval of the plan Feb. 28, but delayed action until the airport advisory committee and the city finance department could supply the Inswers.

Public Works Director Dan Lee is expected to request the financial plan not be deleted from the master plan. Councilman John Staley had asked about the financial plan's importance in the master plan.

A requested review of the financial projections will also be answered.

Replying to Councilman Dale Turner's question about projected decreases in revenues between 1990 and 1995, Lee's report shows reduction in land acquisition and constuction projects will result in reduction of Federal Aviation Agency funding.

Councilman Marshall Kamena had asked about south side acquisitions and whether there should be a committment now for development of hangars south of the field.

Acquisition is necessary to protect the airport from encroachments to the south, explains Lee, and will be necessary if a south runway is a necessity in the future.

Lee placed a high priority on acquisition of the land to the south.

He also explained there is no excess land on the north side for hangars because the little land left should be for expansion of the present fixed base operator and construction of a second FBO.

Staley also asked about possible scheduled airlines that would provide services to distances such as Los Angeles.

Lee cited a 1958 study which showed such an air carrier would not be justified in the Livermore Valley because of its proximity to major airports in the Bay Area.

He also noted the airport master plan limits the airport as a general aviation facility, "with no anticipated commercial air carrier activity."

The city has been notified by Air California that it wants to end its commuter service stop in Livermore because of financial reasons. The city officials have voiced objection.

Replying to a suggestion by Councilman Glen Dahlbacka that the airport play a role in case of earthquake or other Bay Area emergency, Lee noted "earthquake damage would be limited to a specific area and not all airports would be out of service at one time."

"The airport could still function as a base for helicopters and STOL (short take off and landing) aircraft," he said.

Lee will also provide council with a copy of the Alameda County Airport Land Use Policy Plan and EIR.

In other agenda items, council will:

— conduct a public hearing on weed abatement.

— consider request from PG&E for a voluntary electric load reduction procedure.

— continue discussion of the East Avenue reconstruction.

— continue discussion of city development fees.

— hear legal report on public area smoking prohibitions.

— receive bids for the Railroad Avenue construction project, with a recommendation to award to Gallagher & Burk for $311,148.51.

The road

Memories of his 45 years with Southern Pacific filled the mind of Frank Rumsby, an eight year Livermore resident, as he walked along a former railroad right of way. The self loading earth mover nearby, driven by Arnold Silva of Sunol, was the first piece of equipment to start grading operations for the First Street Overpass project. Requirements for the federally funded project, designed to get people back to work, called for work to begin by Monday. Don Redgwick, president of the Redgwick Construction Co., told The Times 80,000 tons of dirt will be transported by 20 of his company's trucks from a local quarry site for the embankments.

Kits available

Livermore's water use down a third

LIVERMORE — Local residents received a good report card this week for their water conservation efforts.

City and Cal Water Co. officials reported a savings of almost one third over similar periods for last year and announced water conservation kits are still available.

City Manager Bill Parness this week told city council water usage last December showed an increase over the previous December by seven per cent, but started to nosedive after people became aware of the growing shortage.

He said February's figures showed a two per cent saving and March jumped to a 29 per cent savings over the previous March.

Cal Water officials said water users in their area consumed 32 per cent less water in March.

Water kits are now being offered by the city water service, for areas north of I-580 and the Wagoner Farms (Valley East) area. The kits include plastic bottles for toilet bowls and shower flow restrictors.

City water customers can pick up their free kits at three locations: the public works department at 2247 First St., the city hall annex diagonally across the intersection, and the city corporation yard on the east end of Railroad Avenue.

The Cal Water kits also include dye tablets which reveal any leaks in toilet plumbing.

What's coming up at county fairgrounds

The busiest month of the year to date is anticipated during May at the Alameda County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton.

The Ladybug Boutique, a craftmanship sale, is scheduled May 4 and 5.

On Friday, May 6, the Amador Valley Teachers Association will hold a dinner dance.

Several auctions, autocrosses and picnics are planned.

On May 14, the 4-H Agricultural Extension Service will conduct at regional demonstration day.

Also on the monthly schedule are a Belmont Trailer Club meeting May 13-14, U.S. Postal Inspectors Service picnic May 14, St. Raymond's Mens Club and Sons of Italy picnics May 15, Porsche Club of America and Northern California Corvette autocrosses on May 14 and 15, respectively, American Antique Auction on May 18-19, and St. Augustine Church school picnic May 20.

Trinity Baptist Church will conduct a religious concert May 21, and St.Charles Parish and St. Augustine's Parish have slated picnics May 22.

Month-end events include a Livestock Booster Club dinner-dance May 28, Artists Co-Op show and Aahmes Greeters picnic May 29, and Assembly of God Church picnic May 30.

Permanently-based activities at the Fairgrounds include Roller Faire, Live-More Health Clu, Pleasanton Fairways, Tennis Faire, Pleasanton Miniature Golf Course, and the Amador-Livermore Valley Historical Society Museum.

City will watch for speeders

PLEASANTON — The city will enforce the 45 and 35 mile per hour speed limits on Hopyard Road north of West Las Positas Boulevard after receiving a complaint from Council Member William Herlihy.

Herlihy said he didn't mind motorists who go a few miles per hour over the limits, but he has clocked some at 65 miles per hour. Earlier in the meeting, Mayor Robert Philcox issued a decree proclaiming this month as "May Compliance Month," urging "all motorists to participate voluntarily in observing the 55 miles per per hour maximum speed limit."

City explains annex plan

PLEASANTON — The city staff agreed to meet with residents along Stanley Boulevard to give them information about how a proposed annexation of their area would affect them.

The invitation to a meeting came from Earl Augusta, a resident in the block - long strip along Stanley Boulevard between the Southern Pacific railroad tracks and Santa Rita Road.

The proposed annexation has been prompted by Joseph Madden, who wants to build a public storage yard on part of his 7 acres in that area. Madden is going along with a city council suggestion to annex so there is local control over his development, should it be granted.

His neighbors want the area to remain residential and are afraid of the impact that his development would have on property. Chiefly they fear that any new commercial development will drive up their taxes, forcing them to sell.

They also may not want annexation because of the implication they would have to pay more taxes as soon as they come into the city.

However, they may be attracted to annexation because the city government is closer to them than the county and they may be able to have a better voice in the development of Madden's property.

Petitions should note the other argument

PLEASANTON — People who circulate petitions of burning interest to the city council ought to be required to give both sides of the issue right there on the petition, Council Member Ken Mercer said last week.

Mercer asked City Attorney Ken Scheidig to investigate the feasibility of accepting only petitions which have given both sides of the question prior to citizens signing them.

Council Member Joyce LeClaire suggested that such a requirement would violate the Constitutional First Amendment rights of anyone circulating a petition.

Mercer replied that actually it would help along the idea of free speech by promoting discussion because both sides of the argument would be given.

City Attorney Ken Scheidig said there could be a problem over whether a petitioner would know or accurately portray the opposing argument.

Mercer said it ought to be explored and so Scheidig will look into drawing up rules city council rules on petitions.

She was the first to love you.

Before you were born, your Mother loved you. She rose at night, weary and in need of rest, to feed and comfort you long before you knew who she was. The years tick by. And, in her way, in all her many ways, she loves you—and needs you—more today than ever. A Spanish Lladro porcelain called "Mother and Child" expresses mother love with gentle understanding. Do you know a lady who would enjoy receiving it from your hands?

Sun-splashed gardens beckon seekers of peace and beauty

Times Lifestyle

Sue Patzkowski of Pleasanton, and Sister Melania, principal of St. Augustine's religious education program, plan the May 15 wine-tasting and tour to benefit the Holy Family Sisters. Exquisite gardens and English-style manors will be open to the public.

Serene pool dressed with water lilies is just one of the picture-book scenes encountered at the Holy Family Motherhouse in Mission San Jose.

"Come and see and be renewed ..." The Sisters of the Holy Family who welome visitors year-round to their little piece of Paradise at Mission San Jose now extend a special invitation to the public Sunday, May 15 for a wine - tasting party and house tour from 2 to 4 p.m.

The 23 secluded and sun-splashed acres surrounding the Holy Family Motherhouse, in glorious spring bloom, will be the setting for this first fundraiser of a newly-formed women's guild which supports the teaching order of sisters. Mrs. Susan Patzkowski of Pleasanton is chairman of the event, and hostess is Mrs. Teresa Scotto of Pleasanton's Villa Armando Winery.

The serenity of a very old and lovingly-tended garden is immediately felt as the visitor cruises along the palm-lined corridor entry which suddenly opens into a sprawling court flanked by two very quaint houses, reminiscent of English manors, and the Spanish-style Motherhouse. The perfume of a dozen varieties of spring flowers fills the air, old lilac bushes bow under the weight of a heavy bloom and regal roses offer showy blossoms to the sun.

Take a stroll beneath the arch of ancient palms toward a quiet pond dressed with water lilies, or meander through the holy garden whose path bypasses shrines to Our Lady of Lourdes and the saints. Every nook is exquisitely manicured — a new delight.

The two English manors, each with a distinct personality, as well as the convent, will also be open to the public. Be sure to see the drawing room at the Armer House — the ceiling was adorned with cherubs by a poor painter who offered his services to the sisters in return for food many years ago.

The property originally belonged to the historic Vallejo family a century ago. The estate passed through several hands before it was acquired by two sisters, Mrs. Oscar Starr and Mrs. Irene Best who built the two English-style homes. In 1946 the Sisters of the Holy Family purchased the property, and later built a large convent to house 80 sisters. The complex became a training center for student sisters.

Since the founding of the Sisters of the Holy Family by Elizabeth Armer in 1872, the first religious order to originate in San Francisco, its members have been dedicated to the service of the poor and the friendless. The order was responsible for setting up day care homes for children whose mothers were forced to work, and later for the religious instruction of Catholic children attending public schools.

The Sisters of the Holy Family have assumed the responsibility for directing the religious education programs in eight surrounding parishes in the Fremont area and at Pleasanton and Dublin. Sister Angela is principal of the program at St. Raymond's Church, and Sr. Melania is principal of the program at St. Augustine's Church.

Tickets for the wine-tasting party and tour at $2.50 per person are now available through Mrs. Patzkowski at 462-1499, Mary Hart at 846-3318 or Reina Whitney at 828-4156. The donation may also be made at the Motherhouse the day of the tour.

To reach the grounds, take I-680 south to Hayward/Mission Boulevard exit, then east to entrance.

A break for cancer

Aric Glanville doesn't seem to mind taking a break from his jewelry business to visit with Pleasanton Junior Women Martie Vassallo and Pam Anderson. KQED seeks local support

Public television station Channel 9 has grown from a tiny $30,000 budget and staff of seven in 1954 to a $6.7 million operation that is run by 125 professionals. Dependent on viewer support, KQED sponsors an auction annually that last year netted $600,000, a project that involves more than 2,500 volunteers and many donations of merchandise and services.

San Ramon's Jo Robinson is coordinating the valley drive to raise funds for the only Bay Area public television station, but more volunteers are needed.

Although KQED boasts a membership of 115,000 subscribers, the station also depends on funds from underwriting foundations, government grants and private enterprise companies for financial support. For the upcoming May 31 through June 11 auction period, volunteers will be collecting merchandise to be shown on television and purchased by home viewers through telephone bidding.

KQED continues to expand its program offerings, and now includes Channel 32 and FM radio 88.5, as well as the regular Channel 9 public-interest fare. The non-commercial station emphasizes quality education and entertainment programs.

Merchants and other individuals interested in donating to the auction may contact Chris Tanner (443-1270), Joan Peterson (846-6119), Sylvia Kendzior (828-4039) or Patti Carleton (828-0959). For art donations call the Way Up Gallery at 443-3388.

Komandorski

Pleasanton Housing Authority Michael Parsons will address the issue of Komandorski Village's demolition and re-building Wednesday, May 4 at Mr.and Mrs. John Rutter's home (7290 Larkdale Ave., Dublin). The 7:30 p.m. meeting is open to the public. Call 828-4474 for details.

Homes, taxes

This is the week when you are made painfully aware of your status as a home owner. Painfull because the county assessor's high estimate of your home's value will soon lead to higher taxes; and that added revenue is needed, of course, "to support schools and public services which the people demand."

All of the people demand or require such services; but not all pay anything like their share.

We heard Senator Nicholas Petris speak to a Sacramento "protest meeting" the other day — the protestors being low income, minorities etc. — and in which that dedicated liberal representative asserted "the tax burden that lies unfairly on the poor must be lifted!" Followed by great applause, naturally.

Since Senator Petris was talking about the unfairness of property taxes, we begin to wonder just who should be paying what in that particular category. If the standard is to be each family's use of public services, surely the Oakland parents with six children in that rundown rental are using "public services" in excess of the suburban family of four occupying that spacious ranch style home.

But that is not the standard. Rather we are now told it is a question of "equity" ... of "taking from the rich to give to the poor." But then what, pray tell, has that got to do with "paying for public services rendered?"

And while we're at it, what has personal income or home ownership have to do with the number of cops on the beat? If the poor Oakland family in Senator Petris' district were to pay its "full share" of public service costs that family's annual tax bill would be staggering.

So stop preaching nonsense, Senator Petris. We "middle income wage earners and homeowners" are going to pay the tax, one way or another. And we know it. But spare us the political crap, please.

Cancer's week

Is there a household in our community that has not been touched by cancer? Of all the maladies that beset humankind, none is so merciless in its attack, striking regardless of age, sex or apparent strong physical stature.

There is still a great deal we do not know about cancer. We have however learned that many forms of the disease can be detected in the early stages, and thereby removed from our body before its deadly spread throughout the system.

The key to early detection is knowledge; and that suggests more of us could profit greatly from a greater understanding of the disease, its symptoms, its dangers, its cure.

Throughout our community this week, and across the nation, we are being called upon to join the Cancer Crusade. Its campaign is big as life, and as close as the people in your neighborhood ... people like Dolly Dahlin of Dublin, Karren Pentony in Pleasanton, Mary Ann Chiddick, Lynne Gross and Betty Cowdery of Livermore. They would like you to become more aware of cancer. And they would like to assist you toward a longer, happier life.

Want to quit smoking? Phone Betty Rotsten at 447-2440 days, 443-5718 evenings. Betty is a "Reach to Recovery" volunteer with an important message.

Need transportation to a Cancer Clinic? Dial 443-3676 and talk to Thelma Frink, a member of the Free Wheelers. Want a film or speaker at your club? Call 282-1174 or 455-0764.

Or perhaps you just want to help in the fight against this killer disease. Then be responsive when a Cancer Crusader calls at your home this week. They'll give you a million dollars worth of information for just a few cents.

In these days of electronic saturation in everything from sports to your favorite commentator on the tube, it may surprise you to learn that the other major news and entertainment medium — the one that is printed on newsprint — is doing very well. Very well indeed.

While the "wringing out process" that is part of every healthy American business has also taken its toll of some of the nation's newspapers, including some fine old standbys in the largest cities, the fact is there has always been another segment of the newspaper industry to step into that gap ... either through expansion of a competing paper, or the entry of some strong new suburban chain.

Regardless of how it comes about, the total newspaper product is more vibrant than ever, operating from a healthier base, and impacting the American consumer to a degree never before thought possible.

To recite just a few "facts about daily newspapers in 1977" ... Revenue last year hit $10.2 billion, up 20 percent over 1975 and more than tv and radio combined! ... 1762 daily newspapers now published in these 50 states with circulation that climbed 322,000 to just under 61 million per day; Sunday newspapers went into 51.5 million homes last year.

So too did weekly newspapering show healthy gains ... 7579 weeklies entering 38 million American homes in 1976.

All of which tells us the newspaper is still America's number one source of news, information and entertainment. Something to keep in mind next time you check out the daily tv log ... in your newspaper, of course.

Classified benefits

Two bills, one authored by Valley Assemblyman Floyd Mori, are making their way through California's legislature to bring retirement benefits and payments to classified school employees up to equity with those of all other state employees.

AB 324, and SB 438 by Sen. William Campbell of Whittier, if enacted, would reduce the school employees' monthly contribution to the Public Employee's Retirement System (PERS), increase their PERS benefits and implement other changes in the law which state employees have acquired in the 1970s.

The bills are designed for what school classified employees feel are gross inequities within the present retirement system. Both are sponsored by the California School Employees Association (CSEA), which represents some 95,000 of the affected 182,000 employees.

Classified employees include school secretaries, bus drivers, instructional aides, custodians, maintenance and food service workers and other school support personnel.

Obviously, if any CSEA chapter (or AFL-CIO chapter for that matter) became "militant" on a particular point, they could virtually bring the machinery of a given school district to a screeching halt.

Richard Ritts, governmental relations rep for CSEA, illustrates the plight that classified employees find themselves in. "In 1972, SB 90 abolished the permissive override tax used to fund classified employees' retirement benefits and that eliminated our source for funding any benefit improvements," he said.

He explains that SB 90 eliminated the ability of school districts to fund improvements in retirement benefits by removing a permissive override tax.

"There is currently no source of funding at the district level for improving our retirement benefits," he adds.

The benefit improvements in the bill being carried by Mori and that of Campbell's are identical. But each bill provides a different approach to funding the $68 million improvement costs.

Mori's bill would be funded by a county-wide property tax and Campbell's would be achieved through straight appropriations from state funds.

The passage of either measure would also create a separate category in PERS for classified school employees, who cumulatively are the largest membership category within the system.

"Then they can identify their common needs, goals and assets and assure that their contributions are going into retirement benefits for school employees," concludes Ritts.

Letters to the Times

What relief?

Editor, The Times:

It is distressing to observe the naive enthusiasm with which the press is treating the proposed "Tax Relief" bill in the State Assembly. We keep hearing how the new tax will hit the wealthy when we know fully well that the process of getting the rich also involves using tax shelters lawfully to avoid paying taxes. Besides, you can count on inflation to hasten the time when it starts hitting the middle class.

Apart from shifting one kind of tax to another of a larger magnitude, there is a far more dangerous and insidious aspect of AB999. The proposal to "allow cities and counties to impose a maximum 15% tax computed on the amount a person pays in state income" is another shackle on the citizen. For an employer it adds to the already voluminous work of withholding Federal and State income taxes, social security taxes, Federal unemployment coverage, state disability insurance, state unemployment payments, etc. In some states they don't have even state income tax and here they are pushing for an income tax at every level of government.

Make no mistake about it. Every additional tax seemingly designed to please some people and hit "somebody else" will limit our freedom and control our life. And by the very nature of the job, even a good politician can turn into a liberal spender of public funds. Just look at the fate of other societies who have tried to solve all problems by taxing ruthlessly. There is still time for people to tell their assemblymen forcefully that they oppose this insidious encroachment on their freedom by the new levels of taxes.

Mardi Gras helpers

Editor, The Times:

The Pleasanton Junior Women's Club would like to extend a belated thank you to the valley for their enthusiastic support of this year's Monte Carlo-Mardi Gras season. This was a new endeavor of the club and it was only a success because of the tremendous support we received from the 27 participating organizations, their friends and the local news agencies.

We promise to continue with the Monte Carlo night and with the community's continued support we hope to have a bigger and better event in the years to come.

Please accept our heartfelt gratitude and deep appreciation of your continued support of the Juniors.

Lively VIP's

Editor, The Times:

As a participant in last weekend's dance marathon sponsored by the Senior Citizens of Pleasanton, I would like to express how impressed we all were with the effort put out by these very important people. They not only danced their tootsies off for the complete 28 hours, they also found time to make beautiful hand-made gifts for door prizes, served the dancers with breakfast and lunch and I might add they won the cha cha contest.

Congratulations! And thank you VIP's on a job well done. I only hope next year you will get much more support from the other organizations in the community.

Rebuilt housing

Editor, The Times:

Thurmon Caudill you can't continue to waste money renovating Komandorski Village as it now stands. You can redecorate a chicken house but you've then just got a fancy chicken house, still obsolete, still under par living quarters, and still an eye sore over all.

If you helped construct Komandorski Village you knew it was temporary structure and never intended to be in use now. You know it does not meet local building codes now.

Pumping costly

Editor, The Times:

Anyone taking President Carter's energy message to the nation seriously cannot help being alarmed by the prospect of having to pay the bill for pumping millions of gallons of sewer water over Brehmer Summit to the bay for the rest of his life...

What makes even less sense is the fact that the pipe line is not being sold to the paying public as the last word; only a temporary solution. If a permanant solution is admittedly necessary for the disposition of waste water why not a permanent solution now? The vagaries of public administration by agencies each acting like small kingdoms and without regard for what the next one might be doing is about to put us all in the poorhouse. Those of us who have borne the campaign for reason and common sense in fiscal matters and plans relating to the pipe line have done so in the hope that all of these emergencies coming at one time might somehow cause people to want to take some action in their own behalf. Crying that you "Can't fight City Hall" won't do it. There is a fight going on here that is worth winning and we can fight City Hall and win if it's worth the trouble.

If you think the newspapers are giving you the whole story, think again. The whole story is not to be found in any one place or any single news article. Few of us will read that much about anything at one time...

Almost every home has a telephone and if 100 people who read this message were each to phone five friends and neighbors, telling them that the pipe line must not happen and to ask them to each phone five more and so on, and finally to telephone "City Hall" with the same message the pipe line can be stopped at once. The big question remains, is it worth the trouble of making six phone calls?

round the town

Let's face it. Americans love nothing more than a good disaster.

Movies built around the disaster theme — skyscrapers burning, ships turned upside down, great air ships crashing into a crowded football stadium — have always assured their producers bundles of profit.

Well folks, tonight on the tube they've prepared a test of your "Disaster Survival Response." Sponsored by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency. That's the same happy bunch which brought us "How to Build Your Own Atomic Fallout Shelter"; and who will ever forget their delightful "Living in a Cave and Loving It?"

Anyhow, the point of tonight's tv show is to test your knowledge of all things bad. "Public safety In The Home, On the Job, In Traffic." That's the goal. But if the Civil Preparedness folks were to stress "safety" as their pitch, Americans would be bored to tears with the thing. Shut if it off. Turn to "Kojak" for some real - life thrills.

So they play down safety, play up DISASTER. This, in fact, was the big concern back in the head offices of Tom Titanic, Jr., as he and his staff prepared for tonight's prime time test on NBC - TV. Tom Titanic is head man in the Office of Emergency Services. Even that title is a far cry from the tired old Office of Civil Defense.

"What we need is PUNCH," Tom Titanic was telling his disaster crew. "We're never going to convince Americans that a program on safety is worth their time ... especially on Sunday night prime time."

"Absolutely right," said Harry Hindenburg, Tom Titanic's chief assistant. "We've got to get Mr. and Mrs. and Ms. America's attention if we're going to save them. How about launching a small nuclear attack on St. Louis just before our show goes on the air?"

The Emergency Services staff thought about Harry's suggestion for a while, but then rejected it as being "way over our budget." But their enthusiasm was far from curbed.

"We can give 'em floods, we can give 'em earthquakes, we can even simulate the next ice age," Tom Titanic Jr. said, enthusiastically. "Now all we need is a score sheet to test the American response to these disasters ..."

"Yes, yes!" Harry Hindenburg agreed, "and how about some prizes for those who score highest on the test? ... we could always apply pressure on DuPont Chemical Corp., Lockheed Aircraft, Winchester Rifle and all those other prime Pentagon suppliers to come through with a few gifts ... something to get Americans really interested in a public safety program."

And so they went, these hard - working public servants in the Office of Emergency Services. This Sunday evening prime time show was to be their big chance. They weren't about to blow it, not again ...

"Yes, Yes," Tom Titanic Jr. recalled, sadly. "The memory of my dear father, Tom Titanic Sr. is still with me ... a brilliant career with the Bureau of Backyard Fallout Shelters ... a member of President Kennedy's Inner Disaster Circle ... driven into disgrace simply because he couldn't sell his shelters to the American people."

"That's all in the past," Harry Hindenburg said, placing his arm around Tom Titanic's shoulders. "This is a new era, a whole new spectrum of disasters ... crime in the streets, drought, giant aircraft in collision ... the American people are ripe for 'Survival '77!' If only ..." Harry added, pensively.

"What??" Tom Titanic demanded. "What have you thought of, Harry, that might turn our one big Sunday night prime time Survival Test into a television disaster?"

"Well," Harry Hindenburg said, "if only the other networks hadn't tried to upstage us. I mean, what chance have we to get Americans interested in self - preservation when they can flip to Channel 5 and get John Wayne at 'THE ALAMO' ... and look what Channel 7 throws against us at 8 p.m., 'AIRPORT' starring Dean Martin!"

"Yes," Tom Titanic Jr. agreed, "and just when our 90 - minute special on survival is hitting its stride, Channel 2 comes up with 'CRIMES OF PASSION' ... "I never knew a red - blooded American who wouldn't choose a crime of passion over his own survival.

"But it might have been worse," Tom Titanic Jr. concluded. "They could have scheduled our big show for Wednesday evening ... and can you imagine the beating our National Disaster Survival Test would have taken trying to compete with the first of the David Frost - Richard Nixon interviews?"

May Day

May Day or May 1 is Labor Day throughout most of the world. America has its own Labor Day in September. Once American workers celebrated Labor Day on May 1, too, but that was a different working class in the 19th century. It had socialists, anarchists and communists in it. They were defeated by a combination of gunshots fired by police, spies planted by the bosses and deportations of dissidents sponsored by Woodrow Wilson's attorney general in 1919. The backs of such militant left wing unions as the International Workers of the World and the Molly Maguires were broken by such tactics.

So we wound up with anti - Communists like George Meany, who fits perfectly with the American Chamber of Commerce. Just a few weeks ago Meany showed where he stood when it comes to his working class brethern. His AFL-CIO persuaded the state department to block visas for three Soviet trade union officials who wanted to visit Seattle to attend a convention of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. The ILWU doesn't even belong to th AFL-CIO, but Meany has enough muscle with the feds to stop the Russians and he did. Never mind about the free exchange of ideas which most of the rest of America is adapting to: Meany stands rockribbed in the Cold War.

That's just one example of the docility of the American labor movement. There are many others. The unions can't get Taft - Hartley repealed. Only 25 per cent of American workers are in labor unions. And so on.

But the biggest failure of the American labor movement has come over socialism. The veer to the right has meant that the working class has been cut off from the only thing that makes sense for it; namely, the workers owning the means of production and distributing the wealth equally.

The system we have now is called capitalism and it works like the time you go to Las Vegas and play the slot machines. If you stand in the right place at the right time, you hit a jackpot. You become a millionaire, although you don't work any harder than anyone else. I can't figure out why American workers let that continue, though I have a few good clues.

The media doesn't say nice things about socialism. And its presentation of entertainment glorifies the "get rich quick, devil take the hindmost" psychology promoted by capitalism. Just count all the "big score" violence programs on television. I think they are symptomatic of the coming apart of capitalism.

Schools don't do any better. I had an unusual exception, myself, having been educated by practicing communists known as brothers and sisters. But the content in most history courses makes it pretty clear who the Good Guys are — nothing is left to objectivity below the college level.

And it's all too bad because those redwood loggers who are teed off at Governor Brown and Congressman Burton are barking up the wrong tree. They think the issue is either jobs or the environment; either chopping down the redwoods or leaving them up for a park. Maybe under capitalism that is the choice. But under socialism, you can create full employment and equal sharing. It already is done in a few isolated cases where workers buy the factory and run it as a cooperative. It can be done on a democratic basis throughout our society; but people have to see the possibilities first and it has to be presented without a lot of big business influenced Cold War jargon, the kind which knocked America's Labor Day from May 1 to the first Monday in September.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have a difficult time telling males from females today. I don't mean just the way they dress but the way they think and act. My nephews and nieces amaze me. When I was young I acted very different around girls than around boys but this isn't true with these youngsters. Am I just getting older and looking at them in a different way? — G.M.

Dear G.M.: I believe your observations are quite accurate. There is a definite trend toward a kind of unisex in the under - 25 generation. A clinical psychologist at New York's Mount Sinai Hospital recently published a study suggesting that many of the differences between men and women are vanishing, especially among young people.

In analyzing responses to the Rorschach inkblot test, Dr. Fred Brown found that the boys' inkblots looked very much like the girls.' He believes the new responses reflect cultural changes in traditional sexual roles. Men, he observes, seem to have grown tired of being aggressive and competitive and may be drifting toward the more passive aspects of their personalities.

He sees dangers in this new trend and views it in a rather negative light. I feel there are positive aspects to this crossover. I believe it will improve the quality of relationships between the sexes and make them much more sympathetic toward each other. I believe women need to be more assertive and men need to be less aggressive.

Recent studies indicate that those persons with qualities of both sexes tend to adjust better to new situations and they may be far better prepared to live in the world of the future.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband just kicked our son out of the house because he discovered he's a Jesus freak. He also says the boy is a Communist. My husband feels his job will be threatened if the boss finds out. He says he believes in our institutions and doesn't want any "revolutionaries" around and this includes his own son. Since this is my step - son, I hesitate to interfere. Also, because the boy was almost fully grown when I married his father, I don't feel whatever has happened is my fault. I've done my best and, in a sense, I sympathize with the boy. Living with his father isn't easy. I'd like to stay on friendly terms with our son. Do you think I should risk trouble with his father to do so? C.A.

Dear C.A.: Yes, I definitely do. First of all, I suspect that your husband hasn't bothered to find out much about this movement from your son or from anyone else, for that matter. Most of the Jesus people are just as anxious to maintain the political status quo as your husband is. I've never heard of any so - called Jesus freaks who are Communists.

Most accept the fundamentalist idea that all of the world's problems are a direct result of man's sinfulness, rather than any malfunctioning political system or from any inequities in the Establishment. Since they accept the imminent end of the world, most aren't interested in wasting time trying to alter or upset institutions.

According to sociologist Dr. James Richardson, young people who join the movement often become extremely self - effacing, shouldering total responsibility for their faults or "sins," while giving God full credit for any good they do or feel. These followers could be in serious psychological trouble if their movement ever collapsed.

Try to stay in touch with this boy, he may need your help one day.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About three months ago I developed a pain in the region of the heart and also pains in the right chest similar to pleurisy which I once had.

After a thorough examination including X rays after drinking something and being on a turn table, my doctor told me I do not have any heart trouble but rather a hiatal hernia.

He did not suggest an operation but suggested that I try to live with it as long as I was not unusually uncomfortable. I have been doing this but the pain seems to jump around from one area to another. Today it is on my left side above the heart region. Sometimes it is in the stomach.

I have cut down on food consumption which I think helps some and I am eating a bit oftener.

I am 83 years old and to think of having an operation is something I don't relish. If I thought nothing further would develop I would be satisfied to bear the pains as I'm no baby. I wouldn't think of taking pain pills as it isn't that bad.

From what I have told you would you suggest that I grin and bear it or do you think by regulating my eating habits I could improve it? I have been told that diet has a lot to do with this type of hernia.

DEAR READER — There is a lot you can do to improve your condition. Most cases of hiatal hernia do not require an operation and the symptoms can be controlled by a change in living habits.

The problem is caused by improper closure of the top of the stomach where it joins the esophagus (food tube) that is often associated with a hiatal hernia. When the stomach slides through the enlarged hole in the diaphragm the normal closure mechanism stops working properly.

In effect your stomach is like a collapsible water bottle with the top off. If you overfill it the acid-digestive juice and the contents in your stomach just spill out the open top, into the lower esophagus. This causes burning and pain. This may cause the muscles of the esophagus to contract painfully (esophageal spasm) and cause pain similar to heart pain.

Those small meals are a good idea. And you should not lie down for at least two hours after eating or drinking anything. That will give your stomach some time to empty. If you keep the stomach empty there is nothing to spill out the top. Of course you have to eat. If you are overweight, losing weight will decrease the pressure inside the abdomen and decrease the tendency for the stomach to herniate through the hole in the diaphragm.

When you lie down you should have your whole trunk elevated. This is usually accomplished by propping the head of the bed up on blocks or on two strong chairs. Don't just prop yourself up with pillows as that will bend your trunk forward and compress your abdomen. This increases the pressure in the abdomen and squeezes the stomach, squirting its contents into the lower esophagus.

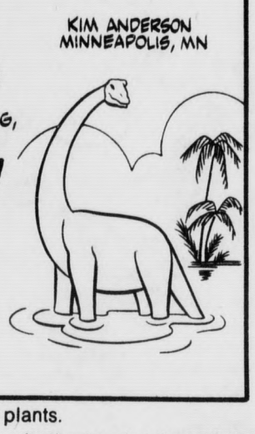
Don't wear anything tight around your waist. Don't bend over, avoid coffee, cigarettes and alcohol. These and other management tips are included in The Health Letter that I am sending you.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW BIG WAS THE BIGGEST DINOSAUR?"

A. THE BIGGEST OF ALL DINOSAURS WAS THE BRACHIOSAURUS. IT WAS 80 FEET LONG, AND WEIGHED OVER 50 TONS - MORE THAN 8 ELEPHANTS!

KIM ANDERSON MINNEAPOLIS, MN



© 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Dick Rogers 5/12

Imagine a creature longer than a railroad car and so tall that it could poke its nose into a third-story window!

Such a creature might have been the giant dinosaur we call brachiosaurus (pronounced BRAK io SO rus). It was the biggest dinosaur we know about.

It grew to be 80 feet long from the tip of its nose to the end of its rather short tail, and weighed well over 50 tons — more than eight of our modern elephants.

It was so heavy that even its post-like legs could not easily support it on land. Only water could support its great bulk, so it lived mainly in swamps and fed on tender plants.

Its tiny head at the end of a very long neck had to work every minute it was awake to gulp down enough food for its huge body.

Even though no one ever saw a brachiosaurus alive, we have a pretty good idea what one must have looked like because fossil remains of their bones have been found.

South's whole problem was to get to play at four or maybe five hearts. The fact that he got West to double was just icing on his cake.

Of course, dummy came down with the right cards to make five hearts a lay down, but South wasn't satisfied. He went after an overtrick.

He ruffed the opening spade and led his ace of hearts. When both opponents followed, South was ready for operation overtrick.

He led his 10 of clubs. At this point in time, the defenders could have saved the overtrick if West had played small and East dropped his king. But West put on the jack and now it didn't matter what East did.

All South had to do was to ruff a spade, play the diamond ace, ruff a diamond, ruff a spade, lead the nine of clubs and sit back.

East had held his king of clubs and had to win the trick. Then he had to lead a spade or diamond. South ruffed in dummy while discarding his last club.

Chabot trustees' action

June commencement set for outdoor court

This year's Chabot College commencement exercises will return to the outdoor Grand Court, after being held in the Chabot College Community Auditorium the past few years.

Trustees decided on the change at a meeting earlier this month.

Dr. Arthur L. Larson, dean of student personnel and commencement director, said the auditorium offered two major drawbacks, (1) people were turned away for lack of seating and, (2) some graduates on stage can neither see nor be seen.

Commencement, for those from both the Hayward and Valley campuses eligible for degrees, is currently scheduled for 10 a.m. June 25 in the Grand Court on the Hayward campus.

The public is invited.

Dr. Larson said an informal poll had been taken of 106 students in which 57 per cent favored the Grand Court, 22 per cent preferred the auditorium, and 15 per cent the gymnasium.

In other action, the board:

Considered but declined an offer to bid for the Norbridge School declared surplus by the Castro Valley Unified School District for $432,000.

Directed the staff to prepare materials for a board work session on present practices and current curricular offerings off-campus and to analyze current and future space needs on the present Hayward campus.

Offered no objection to plans by the California State Automobile Association to construct a 22,000-square foot, two-story building directly across from the campus at the end of Chabot Court in Hayward. The firm anticipates employing 80 persons at the location.

Chabot College will be offering a free seminar on financial planning and investment alternatives on Saturday, May 7 and May 14.

The seminars will be held in Building 600 on the Hayward campus from 10 a.m. to noon.

While special emphasis will be placed on those in State Retirement Systems (STRS and PERS), the seminars will be of interest and value to any who are interested in personal financial planning.

The first session on May 7 will concern itself with financial planning. Topics to be covered include: What is financial planning? Who needs it, who is qualified to do it, what are the major steps in a financial plan, and what tools for financial planning can be used.

The second session on investment alternatives will take place May 14.

The seminars will be conducted by George Knapp, division manager of TMI Equities, Inc., a subsidiary of Teachers Management and Investment Corporation.

Ed Quinnell, Media Resources Librarian, announces that on Friday, May 13 the Community College Media Association, Northern Section, will hold a workshop meeting at Chabot College in Hayward from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All learning resource personnel at community colleges from Salinas north are being invited to attend.

In addition to a general meeting of personnel, there will be a business meeting and job-alike work sessions, led by Chabot personnel, in such areas as printing and graphics, individualized instruction, television, electronic maintenance, and general services, i.e., circulation, processing and evaluation of non-print materials.

Vendors on instructional media and equipment are also being invited to display their latest wares.

Cal High students conduct unique study on water flow

SAN RAMON — To find out where home water flow goes, a group of California High School students conducted a survey then figured out pertinent averages on collected data.

Student interest in the project was generated by Cal High teacher, Bill Pence. He incorporated a water conservation unit in his two oceanography and three seventh grade general science classes.

The home water consumption survey was based on information provided through East Bay Municipal Utilities District's (EBMUD) Project Water.

The students distributed 700 survey sheets to single family dwellings in South San Ramon. They had a return of 600.

"It was quite a chore for Sandy Grigg, Renee Carter and Becky Souza to tally the figures," Pence said. "It took them four weeks or so to complete the averaging."

Water consumption on this survey was based on the 280 gallons per day allotment.

Figures showed there was an average of five people per family.

96 per cent of families surveyed own dishwashers. They run five loads per family weekly.

Washing machines are owned by 96 per cent. Each family averages six loads per week.

There are 1.5 showers per family. Each family member averages 7.5 minutes when showering. An average of 15 showers are taken per family per week.

An average of one bathtub is owned per family. At one time or another, various members in that family dunk their tootsies in that tub five times a week.

Each family claims ownership to three sinks.

Toilets are flushed an average of 12 times per day per family.

Field narrows in selecting Murray Supt.

The Murray School District Board of Trustees will review the credentials and backgrounds of 12 finalists for the superintendent's position from now through Thursday.

A professional screening committee, headed by consultant Dr. Donald Leu, had paper-screened the more than 100 applications down to 12, using criteria worked up by the Local Advisory Committee and Leu.

After the board completes its review, they will convene in closed session next Thursday night and select possibly four or five finalists who will be invited to spend a day in the district.

The visitations in the Murray district will commence Monday, May 9. Should the board select four or five finalists, visitations will be held Monday through Thursday or Friday of that week.

Acting superintendent Heinz Gewing has announced the daily schedule for finalist candidates:

9 A.M. Meet with Gewing at district offices on Brighton in Dublin.

10 A.M. to 3 P.M. Visit schools in the district and look over community.

3 to 5 P.M. Meet with Local Advisory Committee, co-chaired by Lizann Kendall and Steve Wallace.

7 P.M. Finalist candidate meets with public at Frederiksen School library until 8:45 p.m.

9 P.M. Candidate meets with school board in executive session.

The board would then determine how many of the finalists they would want to visit in the candidate's home district.

A similar selection process was followed in the Fremont Unified School District prior to the appointment of Dr. Wayne Ferguson as superintendent.

The successful candidate is expected to be announced in early June. That person will succeed Dr. Donald Williams, who took sick leave in early January.

Trustees study Murray Dist. teacher pact

The Murray School District's plan for allocation of portable buildings in the district and the school board's response to the Murray Teachers Association's contract proposal for 1977-78 head a busy night for board members Monday.

Murray board members will convene at 8 p.m. at Lydiksen School, 7700 Highland Oaks Dr., Pleasanton.

Allocation of portables has been discussed at length in past months because of the pending conversion of Frederiksen School to seventh-eighth grade use and redistricting.

Also, Donlon School has undergone a needs assessment that placed some emphasis on portables currently at the school. The Murray board will also take final action on lease arrangements with Valley Christian Center for use of classrooms and a portion of the playground at Dublin School in 1977-78. The center had requested fencing off of a portion of the blacktop area for use by its elementary grade students. Other terms of the proposed agreement were also to have been worked out.

A citizens committee for recommendations on site utilization is to be selected, the board will receive an Early Childhood Education evaluation report, and one on after school recreation programs.

Trustees will also act on a resolution terminating the employment of two certificated staff members, and consider an application for special education funding under Public Law 94-142.

Pleasanton gives ok to septic tanks

PLEASANTON — The city council approved four new septic tanks last week for lots to be divided from the 18 acres on Foothill Road and Bernal Avenue which once was the subject of a controversial referendum.

The vote was 4-1 with Council Member Joyce LeClaire voting against the septic tanks, a policy which she has pursued in her three years on the council because she believes they may contribute to contamination of the city's underground water supply.

The property has not been subdivided yet, but that will be considered soon by the planning commission. The property at one time had been zoned for commercial and multiple development, but a citizens' referendum in the early 1970's rejected that notion and the council rezoned it to single family residential property.

Amador-Pleasanton districts

Teachers' pact up for review

The 50-page contract proposal of the Amador Valley Teachers Association will be reviewed by the Amador and Pleasanton school districts' School-Community Council at a meeting Monday night.

Council members convene at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the District Education Center, 123 Main St., Pleasanton.

Pleasanton is the only district in the Valley not to reach agreement on a contract for the current school year. The tenets of collective bargaining permit a school board, when the impasse proceedings are completed, to set wages and terms.

The current contract proposal is for 1977-78 and was prepared by the negotiating team of Andy Jorgensen, chairman, Kent Rees, and Don Smith.

Included in the proposal is what the AVTA committee refers to as a "unique form of limited arbitration that can fulfill the particular needs of our district."

States the grievance procedure section, "The arbitration we propose is limited to those grievances which may arise out of the negotiated contract. In no way do we suggest that arbitration of the negotiation process is appropriate.

"Levels I and II (of the grievance procedure) include traditional applications to the site administrator and superintendent for resolution of the problem.

"Decisions made at Level I and II may then be appealed directly to the board. The topic of trust has been a major theme in board and association thinking. Thus, we offer to present our appeal to the board at Level III. We feel that the public, in the form of the board, should be allowed to pass on a grievance before the issue can reach arbitration. This change is an important element guaranteeing that decisional authority not by-pass the board.

"We trust that the board is able and willing to exercise responsibility and make grievance reviews at this level.

"We feel certain," continues the AVTA proposal, "that once the board has had an opportunity to deal with a grievance at Level III, it shall have enough confidence in the rightness of its decision, that it need not fear an impartial arbitrator reviewing the input of all parties and rendering a just decision, should the grievant decide to appeal to Level IV."

In regards to salary, the AVTA proposal states, "We realize the district's income fluctuates and that the amount of funds available for salary increases hinge upon legislative decisions that are often made late in the summer. For this reason, we have chosen not to propose a 'percentage' increase tied to the cost-of-living index when the district's funding outlook remains unknown. Instead, we have proposed a percentage tied only to the receipt of new money by the district. Therefore, we will accept less than a cost-of-living adjustment should the district receive insufficient funds.

"We believe that this concession can be easily met by the district without the district and its employees having to wait for Sacramento."

The proposal asks that 60 per cent of all new funds coming into the district be applied exclusively toward salary and benefits of members of the bargaining unit. AVTA also proposes the following extra pay for extra duty schedule:

Junior high band, marching band teacher, $400.

Junior high coach of football, gymnastics, baseball, track, wrestling, etc., $100 a sport.

Junior high vocal music, drama teacher, $400.

Elementary Outdoor Education teacher, $400.

AVTA devotes five full pages to class size, asking that a learning Environment Committee be organized by Friday of the first week of school. The committee would consist of eight persons and have the responsibility of reviewing class load complaints, while continuing to study, analyze and explore possible solutions. It would also have the power to approve fund allocations to resolve class loading problems.

Chabot trustees to view budget

Superintendent Reed Buffington will present the preliminary budget for 1977-78 at Tuesday night's meeting of the South County Community College Board of Trustees.

The board meets in Building 200 of the Chabot College campus in Hayward at 7:30 p.m.

Buffington will also report on proposed land use at district campuses and the standby heating system.

Architects for the district will also report on construction progress of buildings at the Valley campus. The three structures are scheduled to be open in time for fall classes.

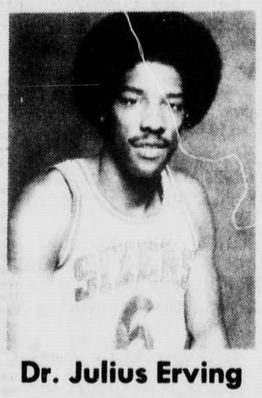
Tennis gets the speed nod

Just Ask

The tipoff:

The most highly sought high school basketball player in the country, by far, is Albert King, a 6-7 talent who, according to one prominent college coach, is already better than his brother Bernard, an All-American at Tennessee. The sweepstakes over where he'll land now point to Maryland and persuasive Lefty Driesell, with UCLA still in the running.

Q. Which travels faster, a baseball thrown by a pitcher the 60 feet 6 inches to home plate, or a tennis ball served by one of the top - flight pros? — D.M., Elizabeth, N.J.



Dr. Julius Erving

Give the nod to the racketeer, by far. The fast balls of pitchers such as Nolan Ryan have been timed in the 95 mph range. Last year, Colin Dibley, the Austrian professional, won the Gilbey Fast-Serve Tournament, hedl coast-to-coast, with a serve timed at 133 mph. Of course, a baseball's a lot heavier to throw — smarts, too, if it hits you.

Why was Dr. J. so upset when he found out he was being used as collateral for a loan by his old team, the New York Nets? What's wrong with being an asset? — K.L., Philadelphia, Pa.

Dr. J. (Julius Erving) reacted by saying that he thought slavery had been dead for more than 100 years. Personally, I think his bruised feel feelings were a little extreme. As long as you accept the system that a player under contract to that team belongs to that team, then the latter has some negotiating rights. However, recent court rulings have limited a club's claims to a player ad infinitum. Dr. J. is a case in point. When he got unhappy with the Nets, he simply skipped to Philadelphia.

Q. A few years ago, a player named Dino Restelli broke in with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He hit all kinds of home runs and the papers at that time were calling him the next Babe Ruth. I don't think he lasted very long. Whatever happened to him, and just how long did he play in the big leagues? — Lou Milone, Santa Ana, Calif.

Dino Restelli came up to the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1949 and hit something like 11 homers in three weeks. "Then," recalls a baseball old - timer, "the pitchers decided to see if he could hit sitting down." Pitched high and tight, Restelli played only half the 'Pirates' games, then went back to the minors, returned only briefly for 21 games in 1951. His major league career ended with a total of 13 homers. He later became a member of the San Francisco Police Department, retired on disability after hurting his back and has been living in San Carlos, a suburb to the south, active in a youth program.

Q. What do you think of the scandal about TV - promoted boxing bouts? Why does boxing encourage such practices as kickbacks, payoffs, fixed, etc.? — D.R., Cincinnati, O.

I can remember years ago when TelePrompter Corporation got involved with boxing, through telecasting bouts on closed circuit, that Irving Kahn shied away from the natural inclination. to participate in the promotion. He foresaw the dangers of conflict of interest when a communications organization got involved with staging an event. ABC got too bold after all its sports coups of recent years. Boxing has been susceptible prey to unsavory interests because it's so easy to control one man in the ring and because historically boxing has always operated on the fringe of illegitimacy.

Q. What is Chrissie Evert really like as a person? — Linda L., Oakland, Calif.

Not the Miss Frost Face that has been suggested in accounts of her implacable winning. She learned early that to control her finely tuned game she had to control her overt emotions. In the last couple of years she has matured into a poised, articulate person off the court with warmth and gentle humor that doesn't surface during a match. Know her, you'll like her.

Parting shot:

Dr. Thomas Kutko knows no more about the psyche of the Cincinnati Reds than a palm reader. I'm bored with these psychologists who have exploited sports for personal publicity.

Cubs lose Vacaville finale, 12-9

VACAVILLE — It was a case of too little, too late for the Tri-Valley Cubs as a five-run sixth inning rally went down the drain in a 12-9 loss to the Oakland Ravens in the Vacaville Semi-pro tournament yesterday.

The Ravens rummaged through three Cub pitchers and sent 15 men to the plate in a ten-run third inning outburst to key the win.

Although only rapping six hits, two of the blasts were triples while four reached via walks and two others by errors.

Bob Moore began on the mound for the Cubs, was followed up by Ed Kukahiko for three batters in the third, while Bob Chapman finally ended th parade and pitched the final 4⅔ innings with mild success.

The Cubs, spotting a 1-0 Raven lead in the first, rallied for two runs in their half of the first on singles by Jim Florence and Carl Speck, followed two outs later by a two-run single by Chapman to make it 2-1 Cubs.

However, the Ravens received triples form Ricky Wilkinson and Ron Londy in the third, coupled with a key two-run single by Denny Robinson, to score ten runs and make the score 11-2. All but one run was unearned, as a dropped throw at second on a force play early in the inning opened the door. The Ravens scored seven of the runs after two were out.

The Cubs scored a pair in the third on four consecutive walks and a ground out, bu in the sixth erupted for five runs to make the score respectable.

Cub manager Billy Williams relieved starte Gerold Smith and gave up all five runs. John McCuaig began for the Cubs with a double, Florence ripped an RBI single, while Kurt Peterson rapped a run-scoring double and Moore a 2-RBI sinlge to account for the runs.

The Cubs finished the tournament with a 3-2 record, while their overall slate now stands at 6-3.

No, Al Attles is not being crucified, but the Lakers are causing pain.

Face Lakers at home

Warriors still hopeful

OAKLAND — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar glided toward the interview room microphone at the Forum in Inglewood Friday night, clad, inexplicably, in his purple Los Angeles Laker road shorts and a weary smile.

The 7-2 center clapped his hands around the edges of the wooden podium, instantly dwarfing it, shook his head at a sports writer's mock wolf whistle and managed a perfunctory, "Shoot."

A fawning southland reporter eagerly chimed-back, "That's what you were doing tonight."

Abdul-Jabbar chuckled, "Well I'm all through now."

Indeed he was, and he may have taken the Golden State Warriors with him. With Kareem turning in the highest individual scoring performance of the National Basketball Association play-offs, 45 points, and grabbing his usual 18 rebounds and the Warriors handing everything else to LA on a silver sweatband, the Lakers took a 3-2 lead in the teams' Western Conference semi-final play-off, 112-105.

(Game six will be played at the Coliseum Arena today at 12:45 p.m.)

The win preserved the incredible home court advantage the clubs have held on each other and, to be realistic, all but insured that the Western Conference finale will be highlighted by a battle between the NBA's top two centers, UCLA grads Abdul-Jabbar and Bill Walton of the Portland Trailblazers .

Abdul-Jabbar, the leading scorer in NBA play-off history, continued his assault on Warrior foe Clifford Ray's play-off field goal percentage record Friday with a 16 of 28 performance that delighted the sell-out Forum crowd of 17,505.

Kareem, however, views his 36 point scoring average and 17 rebound average for the series in a more stable manner than his awe-struck admirers in the SoCal papers.

"I can't score at will," he readily admitted. "If I could, I'd average 70 points a game. I've had success against them and until they come up with a defensive strategy to stop me, I'll keep scoring."

To date, the Warriors defensive strategy against Abdul-Jabbar has failed. Ray, seemingly playing an entirely different, much less disciplined game than he had in overcoming a plethora of leg injuries to anchor the Warriors down the stretch in the regular season, has done poorly.

Although he leads the series in offensive rebounds, Ray has often gone on ball-stalking safaris that leave Abdul-Jabbar alone in the key — something akin to handing John Dillinger the keys to a bank.

Rookie Robert Parish was more effective against Kareem Friday, denying him the ball on several occasions, and wound up with 13 rebounds in 27 minutes.

However, the old tried-and-true method of stifling a big man — keep him away from the ball and stop his team mates — won't work, not the way the Warriors have played at the Forum.

Friday, Phil Smith continud his shooting slump and Gus Williams was able to pick up some of the slack, going five for seven from the field, but the second-year USC grad fouled out after 17 minutes of play.

The most incredible statistic reads like a misprint on the official scorer's report. The Warriors contributed 27 turnovers to the Laker attack and Los Angeles converted ALL of them into baskets. That's 54 points or 24 more than Golden State picked up on LA flubs.

"It's the same old story," said Warrior coach Al Attles afterward. "The same old questions, I wish I could give some new answers."

And while Lucius Allen returned to score 15 points against his club, Attles was again asked if he could think of a way to stop Abdul-Jabbar.

"Yeah, I could stop him," the pleasant, but menacing-looking Attles, scowled , "I'm just not sure it would be legal."

BORN LOSER

If you think things sometimes go wrong for you, you'll feel better after laughing at "The Born Loser" each morning in The Times Comics.

Miller no-hits Cal, 4-0

SAN RAMON— Brad Miller tried the modest approach.

"I really didn't know it until the last inning," said the smiling Monte Vista High righthander, listening to the good - natured jibes of his teammates.

"Hey, I really didn't," he continued, showing a mouthful white teeth, explaining his unawareness of the situation.

Miller mowed down California High with three straight strikeouts in the bottom of the seventh here Friday afternoon and walked off with his first no - hitter wearing a Monte Vista uniform.

Ted Helgen's three run homer to deep left in the fourth gave the Mustangs all the runs they needed in the 4 - 1 East Bay Athletic League victory over the staggering Grizzlies.

"I really thought it was a one - hitter. I wasn't sure," conceded Miller.

In question was a first inning bouncer to short, misjudged by Monte Vista's Kevin Jones. The play was ruled an error but outside of some wild deliveries, Miller and his defense was effective when it had to be against the punchless Grizzlies.

He finished the afternoon with 11 strikeouts, walked just six and struckout the side twice. His moving fastball was most effective when the Mustangs' backs were to the wall. He left six Cal runners stranded, including the sacks loaded in the third.

"My fastball felt real good today," enthused Miller, just a junior.

"This is really a great feeling."

Giants continue home skid, 6-4

SAN FRANCISCO — Rookie lefthander Randy Lerch pitched six strong innings and belted a run-scoring single in a four-run fifth inning, to help the Philadelphia Phillies beat the San Francisco Giants 6-4 Saturday.

The two clubs finish a three-game set today at 1 p.m. It is "Bat Day."

Lerch, 3-1, was lifted in the eighth after the Giants had scored once in the seventh and twice in the eighth to trim the Phillies' lead to two runs.

A second inning solo homer by Terry Harmon put the Phils ahead, but Giants' rookie outfielder Randy Elliott evened the score in the bottom of the inning with his first home run.

The Phillies broke through with four runs in the fifth off loser Ed Halicki, 2-2.

Ted Sizemore's one-out single started the rally and Lerch belted the go-ahead hit following a walk to Harmon. Former Giant Garry Maddox cracked a run-scoring single and Richie Hebner followed with an RBI double, Maddox scoring the second run on the play on a fielding error by shortstop Tim Foli.

Greg Luzinski's RBI single gave the Phillies a 6-1 lead in the seventh before the Giants mounted their comeback.

After Lerch's wild pitch scored a run in the seventh, singles by Marc Hill and Foli and Madlock's two-run double added a pair of runs and chased Lerch in the eighth.

SAN JOSE — Tom Smith's 3:51.6 record-setting time in the 1500 meter run highlighted a strong second-place showing by Chabot College at the Golden Gate Conference Track Finals Friday night at San Jose City College.

The Gladiators collected 104½ points, runner-up to defending San Jose City College's conference-leading total of 140 points.

Nine meet marks, with four set by SJCC, were established.

Likewise, Bob Peterson finished second in the high jump to SJ's Thurliss Gibbs, clearing 6-10 . Gibbs cleared 7-0 to break his own record of 6-10½ set in the GGC trials Wednesday.

Mike McRae won the long jump with a leap of 24-5¾, and chalked up two second places and one fourth place in the 100,200 and the triple jump, while teammate Mike Martin finished third in the long jump and Larry Jackson took sixth in the triple jump with a 47-71/4 leap.

Both relay teams for Chabot did well, logging times of :41.4 and 3:16.3 in the 400 and mile relays, only to see SJCC come away with one of their four marks in the 400 relay with a :40.7 time.

Foothill College's team of Chris Menninger, Leonard DeNux, Dave Jakle and Stephen Chepkwony surprised the other mile relay teams by logging a record time of 3:14.2, including Chepkwony's :46.5 split.

Bowling for the record

By Tuesday night, Tom Destowef's right arm might look like it has a severe case of elephantiasis.

But as far as he's concerned, when you are trying to set a world record for marathon bowling, complications like that are incidental.

Destowef set up camp at the Amador Lanes in Dublin last Thursday at noon. He hopes that the lanes will be his home until 11 pm Tuesday, by which time he will have broken the old world record for marathon bowling of 131 hours.

"I'm going to try and break the old record by at least a couple of hours. I'm not just going to stop after 131.I'll bowl for as long as I can go," Destowef predicted.

Destowef was jovial and alert after 51 hours yesterday. He did complain of a blister that was forming on his foot, and he had taken to bowling in stocking feet.

"I expect my arm to get huge during this, but right now I'm not tired at all. My arm feels like it did when I started," he said munching a hamburger. "I'm just going to slow down and set a steady pace so that I don't get tired."

All of this extra practice time is not helping his average any. But that is the least of his concerns .

"My game has gone down already. I'm not worried about the scores anymore. I'm just thinking about the hours," he shouted over his shoulder as the ball scattered ten pins for a strike.

Destowef's Family has been migrating in shifts from Hayward to keep score as well as to keep him from dozing. His mother Pauline said that the family are the only dedicated rooters now.

"Most people just come over and look, then walk away, rather than ask what he's doing," she noted. By today, Destowef will probably welcome any noise or activity that will help to keep him awake.

By yesterday afternoon, Destowef had tallied 813 spares, 228 strikes, and had completed 229 games. His high game was 200.

The Oakland resident began bowling five years ago, and plays in two leagues. But what is it that motivates a person to go through the anguish and sleeplessness that Destowef is?

"Will- power," he said with determination as he picked up another ball and strode to the line.

AV, Krikorian halt 'Poke skein

Slapping 13 singles and resting on the solid pitching arm of Mike Krikorian, Amador Valley High snapped Livermore's five - game winnning streak with a 4-0 victory in Livermore Friday.

The Dons finally evened up their East Bay Athletic League record at 5-5 in a pleasant interlude to an otherwise disappointing season, while the 'Pokes now must focus on a second-place finish and trip to Shasta after falling to 6-4.

When asked if Krikorian pitched his best game of the season in giving up just three baserunners, Bush replied, "He hasn't really pitched a bad game all season."

"His curve ball was working real well today," Bush continued, "and our catcher (Mike Hoff) called a good game today." Bush also commented on the improving defensive play of his squad. "If the defense plays all along like we did today," he remarked, "we'd be a lot better off right now."

Shortstop Cary Dean handled a number of bad-bounce ground balls for Livermore, and in the last inning ran all the way to the third - base foul line to snare a pop-up and doubled up AV runner Sam Jorgensen at first to cpmlete an excellent outing for the 'Pokes.

However, Livermore bats were silent for the first time since Easter as only Charlie Bockover and Dave Dearborn managed hits. Bockover's was an infield chopper to lead off the first inning, while Dearborn looped a shallow fly to left in the third.

The Dons, meanwhile, scored single runs in the second and third on run-scoring singles by Mike Connolly and George Ellard and a pair of runs in the fifth in abttering Cowboy starter and finisher and loser Jeff Perry, now 2-2. Krikorian's record upped to 3-2.

The big blows in the fifth were RBI singles by Rob Wicks and Koopman. Chris DePrater had two hits on the afternoon.

Krikorian helped solidify the Dons as one of the best pitching tandems in the EBAL. In 33 innings, Krikorian has has an ERA of 1.70 with 34 strikeouts and 18 walks. He has surrendered just 19 hits. Counterpart Rob Wicks has a strike out-walk ratio of 45-6 and an ERA of 2.20.

Cox paces Matadors, 10-1

Steve Cox finally got a chance to pitch for Granada High School and the results were pleasing to Matador coach Dennis Berger.

Cox, in his first starting job, went the distance as Granada trounced host Dublin 10-1 in an East Bay Athletic League game Friday afternoon.

Cox didn't walk a man and allowed only five hits. He fanned four batters.

"The reason Cox hasn't pitched more is because we have three other good pitchers," laughed Berger after his team had moved its record to 7-3. "Personally, I think we have the best pitching staff in the league."

The Matadors jumped ahead right away, scoring three times in the first inning.

Jaryle Hudson led off the game with a single. Mark Davis grounded out but Vance Rushing slammed a triple to left field, scoring Davis. Dublin shortstop Sean Mays bobbled the throw-in and Rushing came in to score.

Kevin Gosney then belted a single and Tim Shatswell a double to bring in the third run.

Dublin closed the gap in the second inning with its only run.

Mike Hardy and Bob Richardson started the inning with singles but Paul Gordon flied out to right field and Mark Martin struck out. However, center fielder John Downing then lined a single to score Hardy. Pitcher Gary Reshe grounded out to end the inning.

The Matadors dominated from then on.

Granada added a run in the fourth. Dan Farrell led off with a triple and Cox then smashed a single for the fourth tally.

Granada added its fifth run in the sixth as Mike Piela singled, was sacrificed to second by Hudson and came in on Rushing's single.

The Mats broke the floodgates in the seventh, scoring five times to make it a runaway.

Shatswell walked to open the inning, Bob Parness singled and Bob Boyle then tripled to drive in both runners. Downing replaced Reshe on the mound and got the next two batters out on ground ball. But three more walks and singles by Davis and Gosney brought in the final three runs.

Gosney led the winners' attack with three hits and two RBI's while Rushing had two hits, scored once and had two batted in two runs. No Dublin player had more than one hit.

Reshes allowd 11 hits and seven earned runs in his stint. He only walked two batters. Dublin's record dropped to 2-8.

Rascano hexes Falcons, 5-2

DANVILLE — San Ramon High pitcher Mitch Rascano scattered five hits in going the distance to lead the Wolves to a 5-2 win over Foothill here Friday in East Bay Athletic League baseball action.

Rascano, in upping his EBAL mark to 3-1, cashed in on the hot hitting of his teammates, who scored three times in the first and added single runs in the fourth and sixth to post the win.

The Falcons, who jumped out to a 1-0 lead but couldn't score again until the seventh, received an eight-hit seven-inning performance from Mike Krikorian, still looking for his first victory in league play.

The win kept the Wolves safely in front of the EBAL with an 8-1 record, their only loss coming at the hands of Livermore, 5-4. The Falcons lost their eighth game in nine trie

California remained tied with Amador and the Wolves with a shaky 17-10 win over Monte Vista, after falling behind 9-4 after three innings.

Pat Dulick, Chris Beaman and Terry Miller all slugged home runs while Cindy Miller has three hits for the Grizzlies.

In the final contest Friday, Granada slided past Dublin, 16-8, behind a grand-slam homer by Bittye Vierra and a trio of hits by both Vierra and Barbara Morse.

Miller hurls wild gem

like to say the same. The Grizzlies have been swinging and connecting with air in recent outings and neither knows the answer. Before Friday's contest, Cal has been one, two and three hit in three previous games.

"I don't know what's wrong," moaned Noble. "If I did we wouldn't have been no - hit. We were just at the bottom of the barrel today. Until we stop swinging for the fences we're not ging to do anything."

"We're just pressing," added Benatar. The grizzlies fell to 3 - 7 with the loss while the Mustangs won their sixth against three losses and trail front running San Ramon (8 - 1) by two full games with five games remaining.

The Grizzlies had Miller on the ropes in the first when they loaded the bases, but let him off when Chuck Cury bounded into a double play. Matt Fahey, who walked and moved to third on a pair of wild pitches, came home on the ground ball for the losers only run.

Monte Vista tossed in an insurance run in the fifth, following Helgen's towering fourth inning blast which carried over the 300 foot makeshift fence and took a hop on Cals new track. The Mustangs' third baseman has found his swing. Earlier in the week he hammered three straight hits in the MV's 6 - 2 loss to Granada.

Monte Vista catcher Mike Cockerton slapped a single to left, bringing Steve Jayko and the Mustangs final run to the plate.

Pleasanton's Amberwood

Here's a place for the family

AMBERWOOD. These distinctive new homes, designed with some of the most modern energy and water efficient features available in homebuilding today, are being constructed in a prestigeous San Francisco Bay Area community steeped in centuries-old history dating back to 1772.

Pleasanton grew slowly amid colorful fiestas, a tradition of thoroughbred horse breeding and a bountiful harvest from its rich soil. The area still maintains much of its original rural charm. Each year this delightful town is the scene of the Alameda County Fair held at the fairgrounds located within the city limits.

Pleasanton has a distinct advantage for the commuter. It is equal distant from both Oakland and San Jose, just 40 minutes driving time to either major employment center, It is only an additional 15 minutes to San Francisco.

Facilities and amenities of every kind abound in the area ... excellent shopping, schools, churches, medical and recreation are all conveniently located to Amberwood. And yet, while almost everything you and your family requires is nearby, Pleasanton is the kind of community where it shouldn't take long for the shopkeepers to call you all by name. Amberwood ... the homes in the kind of community you'd live to raise your family.

More features mean more value and savings to you especially in these energy efficient homes. Such saving energy devices such as pilotless furnace - electrostatic ignition, fully insulated walls and ceilings, weatherstripped exterior doors 3½ gallon flush toilets, 3 gallon per minute showers etc.

There are three plans with three distinctive looks to each model. With one story homes of three bedrooms, 2 baths, living rooms with fireplaces, step down family room and the master bedrooms with private bath, sunken tub, separate dressing area with double vanities and walk in closets starting at $76,990.

In the one story 4 bedroom, 2 bath plan includes the same basic extras at no additonal cost to you are wall-to-wall carpeting in the living room, hall, stairs and bedrooms.

The featured home shown in the photo is a two story 4 bedroom, 2 bath home with guest powder room, formal entry, stepdown living room with optional fireplace available to you plus a stepdown family room with fireplace, separate dining, eating nook adjacent to the kitchen. The master suite with large corner walk-in closet, separate dressing area with double vanities, and private bath with sunken tub. All three models in this plan of home comes with two or three car garages.

A builder's reputation for quality and value should be a prime consideration to the homebuyer. It is important to deal with an organization that stands behind its product and assures lasting satisfaction. William Lyon, chairman of the board of The William Lyon Company, has been a leader in the building industry for almost a quarter of a century and has been building quality homes in the Bay Area for years. Mnay of his homes and design concepts have won him top awards from such respected publications as "House and Home," Professional Builder and the National Association of Hombuilders "Journal Scope." The Lyon Company is your assurance of outstanding value for your homebuying dollar in very price range, size or choice of location.

A successful warranty company

Efforts by the National Assn. of Realtors to establish an approved home protection plan program have been so unfruitful to date that many brokers are wondering whether NAR will ever succeed in attaining its objective of a combined warranty inspection program. None of the three companies originally approved by NAR have had any notable success in getting their programs off the ground. One company, Factfinder Home Inspection Division of Terminix, found the cost of such a program so cumbersome, it has dropped out of the picture. Alexander & Alexander, a national insurance brokerage firm still hasn't been able to get its program beyond the testing stage, The third company (CHIP) recently underwent some reorganization changes for reasons which are not being publicly revealed at present.

With this background we find it interesting that one warranty company, which has not sought NAR approval, claims to be not only writing more warranty business than all other competitors combined, it is also continuing to increase its share of the market. We are talking about American Homes Shield, based in Pleasanton, Ca. since 1970, when the company was first founded, it has seen many competitors go out of business. In discussing this past history with top officers of publicly held AHS we find that there are secrets to its success.

AHS does not inspect any of the properties it covers. By contracting with brokers to provide such protection on every home sold, warranty fees are collected from both buyers of homes with no repair problems as well as those that do. The premium is figured on an actuarial basis. Before the company adopted this policy it had lost $1.8 million mainly because of inspection costs. Now it is a money maker.

AHS has converted the warranty from a hard sell program to a selling tool, by telling the home owner that the house will be protected by a warranty free of charge until sold, (the buyer pays) a broker has an advantage over competitors.

It is simple for any home owner to understand the AHS program. There is only one charge for the coverage. Price does not vary according to size or value of the house, nor does it involve fees or travel time for an inspector.

AHS does not provide coverage in any market until enough brokers in a given trade area sign for the program. The program makes a profit in every area served.

It maintains close control over its network of contractors who make repairs under the warranty program. Company inspectors consistently spot check the work of repairmen to make sure charges are realistic.

It has avoided getting involved in so called insurance programs. Its program is limited entirely to warranty coverage. Under a formal insurance program, the home owner would get bids from three companies then have the work done by the lowest bidder. This system encourages abuse just as it does under the auto insurance program which is one reason why the cost of insuring a car is so high.

Use of this approach in selling its warranty program has paid off well for American Home Shield, its reputation in the industry has now reached an all time high. Prominent among its customers are many of the country's largest realty firms. It is currently writing new business in areas where it has competition because brokers have something to compare its program with. And it now has enough surplus liquidity to diversify into other activities if it so desires.

What makes the American Home Shield program even more viable, is that the Canadian Real Estate Assn. is working on the development of an industry wide program based on the same principles used by AHS. It is CREA's contention that it is much cheaper and simpler to offer warranty protection at a price based on actuarial studies rather than vie a personal inspection of each property.

Finally, AHS has just hired the president of its largest competitor. After fighting the problems involved in selling a warranty program involving individual property inspections, he finally decided that the AHS approach was the right one. AHS will soon make public the details of this new develpoment.

Every profession or industry has their own language, set of terms and of course abreviations that are particular to that profession. For the lay person this makes the world of finance even more difficult to comprehend. The following is a list of commonly used terms referred to by your real estate broker or banker. Hopefully the following will help bridge the language gap.

A Mutual Water Company is a non-profit company organized by water users in a certain district to develop and furnish water to its stockholders at reasonable rates. Articles of incorporation are filed with the Secretary of State. Stock is distributed to water users. A permit must be obtained from the State Division of Corporation to do this. The company is run by a board of directors elected by the stock holders. Water Costs depend upon the expense of the service. This type of water set-up is common in suburban areas.

Real Property (real estate) is the land and anything permanently affixed to it. Therefore houses, barns, fences, trees, etc are real property. Escrow is a title company and privately operated escrow offices. The average escrow holder takes care of the preparation of all papers involved in a real estate transfer, getting them properly signed, delivered, recorded accounting for all funds involved, and placing of a mortgage etc. A fee is charged for this service.

Amortized Note or installmant loan is one in which requires regular payments of principle and interest during the life of the loan, usually monthly.

Tenants Incommon ... If two or more persons buy property and own it together they are called tenants in common. They may own equal or unequal shares. Neither one can identify his share of the property as the individual shares in the whole. If one of the partners should die, his interest is not acquired by the remaining tenants in common, but by his heirs.

Tenant In Partnership ... Is very similar to Partnership in Common, although partnership property is subject to certain regulations imposed by law. Partnership may be held in the names of all the parties or by one or more partners in trust for all partners.

Numerous sales of real estate in California are made by real estate of land contract, sometimes called a Conditionel Sales Contract. These consists of a contract whereby seller and buyer agree to certain terms as to the payment of the purchase in installments, and the buyer is usually given possession of the property. No deed is given, or title passes, until the buyer has met certain conditions of the contract, such as payment of a certain part of the purchase price in regular installments. The contract purchase is said to be the Equitable Owner of the property.

An Exclusive Agency Listing gives the exclusive right to sell the property to one broker only, but does not prevent the owner from selling it. If he does, he need not pay a commission.

An Exclusive Right To Sell Listing makes a broker the sale person having the right to sell a property. Not even the owner may sell it while the listing is in effect without paying a commission to the broker. Brokers should not take this type of listing unless they are willing to spend time and money on it to find a buyer.

An Open Listing does not prohibit a seller from giving a similar listing to as many agents as he pleases. He may give this type of listing to several brokers. The first one to find a buyer and get the sellers acceptance makes the sale. Brokers hesitate to spend much money or time in finding a buyer, as they have no assurance that another broker may not sell it first.

The Multiple Listing is usually an exclusive right to sell listing given to a broker who belongs to an organization of brokers, with the understanding that it will be circulated to all members of the organization with the right to work on it. Several real estate boards maintain this service for members. It is very effective in securing action for sellers and promotes business for the broker members.

A Straight Note is one which does not call for payment of any of the principal during the period of the loan. The entire loan is repayable on a certain due date. Interest is payable periodically during the term of the loan.

An Installment or Amortized note is one which requires regular payments of principal and interest during the life of the loan, usually, monthly.

A forest fire is a shame.

Starting one is a crime.

First dwellers for Broadmoor

Broadmoor's Big Welcome to 'First FAmily.'' The Sullivans, first family to move into the Crow Canyon $120 million master - planned recreational community and country club on Crow Canyon Road near Danville, were welcomed by Dale H. Moffett, Broadmoor's Northern California director of marketing. Included in the welcoming ceremonies was the presentation of a $500 gift certificate for landscaping from Navlet's Nursery and dinner at Le Virage in Walnut Creek. Located on 431 acres, Crow Canyon consists of a private country club complete with 18-hole championship golf course, thirteen lighted tennis courts, and the surrounding community of 1028 luxury homes, many located right on the golf course. Left to right are: Dale H. Moffett, Broadmorr's Marketing Director, Bonnie Sullivan, Glen Sullivan and Glenn, Jr.

Crow Canyon, Broadmoor Homes' $120 million master-planned recreational community and country club on Crow Canyon Road just east of Interestate 680 near Danville, has welcomed its first new residents — the Glenn Sullivan family, formerly of west Danville.

Dale H. Moffett, Broadmoor's director of marketing, was on hand to greet the Sullivans and present them with a collection of gifts including a $500 gift certificate for landscaping from Navlet's Nursery in Danville and dinner for the family at Le Virage in Walnut Creek.

Including the Sullivans' garden manors home, Broadmoor has sold record sales of luxury Crow Canyon homes in just 11 weeks, in Northern California.

In explaining the public's overwhelmingly enthusiastic response to the country club homes, Moffett noted that Crow Canyon serves as a prime example of the Broadmoor tradition of putting homeowner needs and wishes first. "There's no doubt,'' Moffett explained, "that prospective buyers particularly appreciate the tremendous variety at Crow Canyon. There are, for instance, 12 different floor plans and multiple exteriors to choose from, as well as 3 different lifestyles. On the one hand, there are our country estates, some of the largest homes built today, where the emphasis is on spacious, king-sized living throughout the home. Or our fairway villas — large, plush homes notable for the fact that each one overlooks a fairway. And of course, our garden manors life-style: single story, fully detached — selected by the Sullivans because it suited their particular family requirements."

Sullivan, a Pacific Telephone and Telegraph manager who is in charge of 2000 long distance operators in the Bay Area, explained their choice of a recreational community like Crow Canyon: "My wife and I found ourselves faced with the typical dilemma of what to do when your children are grown and moving away from home. In Danville, we had 5 bedrooms, 3200 square feet, and a half-acre lot to care of ... too much house for just the two of us and too much yard. To keep it in shape was taking up more and more of our time — time we wanted to use pursuing other interests."

"We decided," Sullivan's wife, Bonnie continued, "on a recreational community. But we wanted a real home. We didn't want to move into a small condominium with few recreational opportunities. For us, Crow Canyon was the perfect solution. Tennis is my game and Glen loves his golf, so one of the first things we'll do after settling in is apply for membership in the Crow Canyon Country Club."

"Another reason for deciding on Crow Canyon," Sullivan noted, "was that we wanted to stay in the Danville area. Both Bonnie and I are natives of the East Bay. Our roots are here; and we love the valley countryside."

The Sullivans' garden manors home features a garden atrium, formal entry and dining area, plus quality extras like high sloping ceilings, sound - insulated bathrooms, luminous ceilings, and elegant fixtures throughout.

Crow Canyon Country Club, when complete, will consist of an 18-hole championship caliber golf course, 13 lighted tennis courts, an A.A.U. competition-size swimming pool with racing lanes and one and three meter diving boards, and a 34,000 square foot club house, which will include 2 dining rooms, snack bar, grill room, cocktail bar and lounge, pro shops, jacuzzi spas, etc.

In view of the fact that each new phase at Crow Canyon sells quickly, Broadmoor's Moffett encourages other homebuyers to visit the recreational community of 1,028 homes as soon as possible. Take Interstate 680 to Crow Canyon Road just sought of Danville; exit east and continue one-half mile to Crow Canyon.

Escrow association seminar

Real Estate Exchanges will be the topic of the upcoming seminar offered by the Alameda County Escrow Association, Lucille Wilson, Educational Committee Chairman, announced yesterday. Guest speakers will include an attorney/CPA, real estate broker, escrow officer and IRS representative.

"This will be an excellent opportunity for interested parties to have their questions answered on exchanges," said Ms. Wilson, who stated that a major part of the seminar would be devoted to audience questions.

The seminar, which is open to anyone in the community interested in learning more about real estate exchanges, will be held Saturday, May 14th at Goodman Hall, 10 Jack London Square, in Oakland, from 8:30 to 2:00.

Speakers will include Harold Buchman of Oakland Real Estate and Investment Co., who teaches exchanges at U.C. Berkeley; Steven L. Hallgrimson, attorney/CPA with Howell. Hallgrimson & Rubenstein in San Jose; Carolyn Wilson, Certified Senior Escrow Officer with Transamerica Title Insurance Co. who specializes in exchanges; and Mike Ferguson of the Internal Revenue Service, who specializes in tax-free exchanges.

Why licensing laws?

San Juan, Puerto Rico (April 21, 1977) — Equal protection of both the public and the real estate professional is the main reason why it is highly important for real estate licensing laws to be in effect.

This was one of the major points made by Harry G. Elmstrom, Ballston Spa, N.Y. Realtor and president of the 500,000 - member National Association of Realtors, in speaking at the Realtor Week luncheon of the Puerto Rico Association of Realtors here. Puerto Rico does not have a real estate licensing law, but is considering one. The fifty states do.

"Licensing definitely has shown that it eliminates a great deal of irregularities that result in litigation and in turn costs a black mark against Realtors and the real estate business in general," Elmstrom said. "A license law tends to elevate the real estate business because it is seen by the public as a safeguard to their interests." Elmstrom said Realtors who conduct their business on ethical and professional lines are not concerned about the government looking into their affairs.

He said a real estate licensing law raises the standard of the real estate profession in the public's mind and creates for the real estate profession a degree of public confidence that is not possible where no such laws exists. He said the National Association of Realtors had worked extensively in all 50 states to have good real estate licensing laws enacted.

Rarely in todays modern mechanized world of super sonic jets, flights to the moon, giant super markets and rapid transit, do you find a service-orientated company large enough to provide all the essential services yet be totally devoted to providing buyers and sellers with the utmost in service.
Such a company exists today in the Real Estate Industry.

Super Show House

By MAGGIE CRUM

Excellent reason for a jaunt to Hillsborough is the 1977 Decorators' Show House, which is ready and eager to welcome the public daily through May 15.

For its 20th annual extravaganza, the Coyote Point Museum Auxiliary has selected Casa Ninos, imposing residence built in the 1920s by architect Clarence Tantau and designed along the lines of a 17th century Spanish grandee's adobe. It is situated on a sunswept knoll overlooking San Francisco Bay, and is happily in tune with its immediate surroundings and with California.

To me it is far more pleasing structurally than some of the country homes and Mediterranean villas I've visited in previous Hillsborough tours. And if I had pots of money ($750,000, to be more exact), plus a Mrs. Bridges and Hudson, a la "Upstairs Downstairs," to cater to my needs and whims, I'd gladly place a bid on Casa Ninos.

Each year the Auxiliary selects one of Hillsborough's posh mansions, refurbishes it via the talents of 50 of the Bay Area's top decorators, and throws it open to the public for three weeks. Proceeds go to the Auxiliary's projected science museum, with ground breaking scheduled this summer.

The Show House is no small undertaking. Such is its fame that it attracts more than 20,000 visitors each year; it is imitated all over the United States — and last year it netted a tidy $100,000 plus.

With no holds barred (in other words, money), the resourceful decorators have done a bang - up job in turning an already magnificent home into an opulent treasure trove with objects of art collected from world - wide searches.

Take your time as you wend your way through the maze of decorated rooms and areas — 44 in all — every one of them showing rich imagination and ingenuity. And take a few notes to remind you of the wonders you have seen.

The house is bursting with ideas certain to lend spark and excitement to less baronial homes. Even though at the moment I don't covet a metal dragon that opens up to store cocktail onions, toothpicks, olives and other accoutrements of a well - stocked bar, were we to redecorate our family room, it might be the perfect $6,000 touch.

Flowers and plants have never been used more lavishly and with more spectacular results. Orchids, chrysanthemums, azaleas, and lush greenery flourish throughout the house, masking dull corners, accenting polished tables, gussying up bathrooms, pantry and kitchen.

And as you progress through the house, look downward at the tile floors, upward at the lofty beamed ceilings, and then look to the walls where you'll find posted in each room a list of the furnishings and the price of each and every item. Blanch not as you contemplate buying that lovely Chinese altar table and find that the price is $6,500.

I found much to admire in the huge and airy living room, with a gargantuan beige sectional, leaded glass window. Spanish fireplace and oh - so - soft fringed beige rug ($4,300). Note the vast glass - topped coffee table, and think what fun it would be to dust.

Do-it-yourselfers should scrutinize the bookcases in the library, painted to simulate marble. But think carefully before you head home and buy the paint. The brush, we learned, was a turkey feather, and the painter learned the painstaking art in Italy.

An oasis of serene elegance is the master bedroom, French in feeling and done in gentle beige, blue and silver. You'd feel distinctly uncomfortable, were you to toss your dirty blue jeans and socks on the floor, then hop into the bed, with its formal blue damask canopy, to munch popcorn.

A charming "young lady's bedroom" features a harem ceiling of draped fabrics, a brass chest and bed, and a cloud - soft pouf of a quilt to engender sweet dreams.

These days not too many houses sport back stairways. But Casa Ninos does, and as of this week its walls are hand - painted in fragile blue and white. You may order something similar for your own stairway for only $2,850.

A throwback to an earlier era is the somewhat busy dining room, with its burgundy walls, shocking pink drapes, Chinese rug, sparkling chandelier and a plethora of gewgaws. Not the setting for a breakfast of yogurt and wheat germ.

The bathrooms — lots and lots of them — are fascinating. A bottle of champagne and a spray of orchids are handily placed on a tray at the foot of one bathtub — far nicer than a can of scouring powder. An oil painting, rather than a soap dish, adorns the wall behind another tub. A roll of toilet paper is demurely covered with macrame. Towels are neatly stacked on a baker's rack. A cut glass decanter and stemmed goblets are just the thing to tempt the master of the house in his very own dressing room. Yet another bathroom sports a mirrored ceiling, mustard walls and beautiful blue tile that has withstood the ravages of a half century of hot and cold showers.

The many pleasures of the Show House may be viewed daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and also from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays, through May 15. Admission is $5.

To get there, head across the Bay Bridge, follow the Bayshore Freeway to Highway 280. Follow 280 (don't forget to look at the ticky - tacky houses) to Hillsborough and the Black Mountain Road exit. Then follow signs to a parking area on Wedgwood Drive, from which point shuttle buses will be provided to Casa Ninos.

Indian arts show slated in Valley

LIVERMORE — Back again with a much larger show this year, the Fifth Annual Indian Arts and Crafts Festival, plus a Pow - Wow and other Native American cultural exhibits, is set to go Saturday, May 7.

The festival opens at 10 a.m. and winds up at 6 p.m. The Pow - Wow will start later and continue through midnight. A friendship dance is usually the highlight of this unique event in which all people present participate and it is enjoyed by Indians and non - Indians alike.

Although Native Americans from all over the West come to the annual festivals to sell handmade crafts or perform traditional ceremonies, the festival is entirely locally planned. Proceeds go for scholarships for local Native American students.

Ken Jamison, a third - year veteran emceeing the popular show, will do the honors again this year. He will be assisted by Cy Williams, dance instructor, and Frank Garcia, emceeing and dance coordination.

Members of the local Society of American Indians who will help in the day's activities will be Jerry and Margery Thomas and their children; Keith and Lona McCallister and family; Jacque and Jim Earhart; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beale; Ray and Amelia McClure and many other helpers.

The public is invited to attend the unique program; admission is $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for students, children under 12 free.

The program is sponsored by the Society of American Indians, a non - profit organization. It will take place at Junction Avenue School, located just off First Street near the I - 580 freeway in Livermore.

Special steps being taken to protect parks from fire

The East Bay Regional Park District is taking extra pains this year to be sure their 30 parks are safe in case fire breaks out.

"Frighteningly dry" is the district's prediction for the coming summer season, which is expected to attract huge numbers of visitors to the parks. As a result, springs are being tapped at Sunol Regional Park an its satellite Camp Ohlone. Huge storage tanks are being built there — a 20,000 - gallon tank at Sunol and 5,000 - gallon at Ohlone — as well as tanks in Tilden, Redwood, Briones and Chabot Regional Park.

Today at Lake Chabot Marina and Tilden, EBRPD workers are showing off their firefighting equipment, which will be standing by to protect the district's 44,000 acres of woods and brushlands.

The district's Special Services rescue rig, an outfit similar to the multi - purpose equipment popularized on the TV "Emergency" show, will be at the Lake Chabot Marina between San Leandro and Castro Valley. The district's "glamour wagon" also carries 300 gallons of water and serves as the command post on fires in which forces of several jurisdictions are working.

Chief Rich Aronson has 19 tanks, all with their own water supply of 300 - 2,000 gallons, stationed around the district.

In addition, there are 18 other small trucks used for park maintenance that carry 50 gallons of water, 250 - foot hoses and small pumping engines. Nearly 200 employes, mostly maintenance workers, are trained in firefighting.

Another dozen manual outfits are spotted around the district, consisting of five - gallon manual tanks that are strapped on the back, the water sprayed by hand pump.

Top talent

Although the reigning Little Miss California Talent, Michelle Robert of Livermore, will be turning her 1976 crown over to another in June, the sixth grader doesn't plan to stop winning other trophies. An acrobat and dancer, Michelle recently won four championships at the state's largest talent competition in Santa Clara, along with the junior division trophy from St. Michael's April 23 talent show and a second place award at the annual Sun Valley Show Stoppers contest. Michelle plans on becoming a dancing teacher or a professional dancer.

Transit project funding to total some $100 million

Alameda County Bureau

BERKELEY — The Metropolitan Transportation Commission has decided to pump some $100 million into transportation projects throughout the Bay Area.

Commissioners last week agreed to allocate some $36.9 million in Federal Aid Urban funds to AC Transit to cover operating expenses over the next five years.

The bus district will get an additional $591,000 in Urban Mass Transit Administration monies to cover capital expenditures, chiefly maintenance facilities for its fleet of busses.

The funds are not a windfall, but were entailed in the district's budget projections.

MTC also agreed to allocate some $81,000 to the City of Concord for an experimental "traffic light control system."

The experiment will equip buses on the Willow Pass Road run with strobe lights that will let the bus driver change traffic signals.

The system "won't stop traffic willy-nilly," an MTC spokesman explained, but will reduce bus travel time by about 15 per cent on Willow Pass Road.

Another $419 million will go to the East Contra Costa County Transit Authority to develop a feeder bus system to relieve congestion on the Bay Area Rapid Transit express bus routes.

Feeder buses will take over BART routes in the Antioch - Pittsburg - Brentwood corridor, leaving the BART buses to channel passengers via main highways.

East Bay Parks Board to preview new budget

East Bay Regional Park District directors will hold a work session on capital projects for the coming year when they meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday at BART headquarters, 800 Madison St., Oakland.

At the public meeting, the board is expected first to hear a progress report on the 1977 - 78 budget by the finance committee.

Following the report, directors will discuss various capital projects planned in the Alameda - Contra Costa County park district. General manager Richard Trudeau will report on the status of state Proposition 2 park funds which will enable the district to undertake major development in the coming years.

VCSD seeking swim teacher

DUBLIN — A swim program for handicapped needs a co-ordinator instructor.

The Valley Community Services District (VCSD) is sponsoring the program. The deadline for applying is May 25, 1977.

Persons applying should possess ability to publicize, promote and implement individualized instruction for children who have various physical and emotional impairments.

For additional information, contact the VCSD Recreation Department at 828-7711.

Vet says pet allergies prompt undeserved death

Allergic to pets?

Stop! Don't murder that trusting beagle — at least not until you explore all alternatives, begs veterinarian William R. Evans of Dublin Veterinary Hospital.

"You wouldn't believe how many people come in here to have their pets put to sleep because the doctor says somebody in the family is allergic," the vet reveals. "I'd say it happens to us a couple of times a month. Think how many are taken to the pound."

In a recent Times article, Dr. George Stahl was said to have told allergy sufferers they should not keep furry pets if they're allergic to other irritants such as pollen and house dust. A "Make sure, first," begs Dr. Evans. "A good diagnosis should be made by a doctor before any decision is made.

"Many animals can adapt to living outdoors if there's an allergic person in the house. Keeping the patient and the animal apart doesn't have to mean getting rid of the animal.

"Or at least, try to have the pet adopted."

Know about this auction, Iran the largest producers of hand woven carpets and rugs, has been a backward, slow moving country for centuries. Suddenly with the event of industry oil and free education it zoomed to the 20th Century. As a result the children are the majority of the weavers were lured away from the ancient art of weaving. In our opinion this great art will soon be lost and so scarce that todays European collectors and dealers are rushing to America to collect these beautiful carpets.
